THE ALABAMA NEGOTIATIONS.

Opposition to Postponement of Arbitration.

GREAT BRITAIN.

THE ALABAMA NEGOTIATIONS.

LONDON, June 11.—In the House of Commons to-day Gladstone made a statement of the present condition of the Alabama negotiations, the main point of which was that a proposal had been made to the United States for a postponement of the meeting of the Board of Arbitration at Geneva for eight months.

This information had already been anticipated by late cable dispatches to the English press from America, which state that the letter of Earl Granville making the proposition had been published there in full.

Bernal Osborne asked whether the dispatch purporting to be from Earl Granville proposing an adjournment of the Geneva tribunal was genuine. He considered it humiliating and undignified.

Gladstone replied that the dispatch was genuine, and he defended the proposition it contained as honorable to both countries.

Disraeli strongly opposed leaving the question open for eight months, particularly while a heated Presidential contest was in progress in the United States. This country had been kept too long in the dark. He believed the policy of the Government would end in disaster and disgrace.

Gordon J. Bentinck, Lord Farmouth, Sir G. S. Jenkinson, Mr. Watney, and others, severely criticized the Government, expressing want of confidence in its future proceedings.

Gladstone defended the action of the Government at great length, and closed with a declaration that it would be a crime to deviate a hair's-breadth from the original position.

In the House of Lords Granville made his statement. He said that on Saturday last it became clear that the British and American Governments would fail for want of time to come to an agreement with regard to the supplemental article. The difficulty between them related solely to the bearing its conditions were to have in the future. The Americans considered the English objections hypocritical. They had consented to the idea of an adjournment of the Geneva Board to give time for the removal of the difficulties. To-morrow the British agent and representatives would start for Geneva, for it would be dignified and courteous to appear before the arbitrators, whatever the circumstances might be. Decisive instructions and full powers had been given them.

Lord Cairns expressed astonishment; but the House was accustomed to surprises on this subject. He supposed the eight months' adjournment was made in the hope of something turning up and helping the Goverment out of the predicament.

Granville said he must hesitate to accept Lord Cairns' criticisms, because of the inaccuracies of his speech.

Marquis Salisbury believed the Americans were urging as strongly as ever their indirect claims. England had failed to maintain her position. He felt there was ground for distrust. Parliament had subsisted too long on scraps of information supplied through the corruption or indiscretion of American officials. The House wanted to know what the terms were on which England consented to proceed with the arbitration.

Earl Kimberly, the Colonial Secretary, replied that neither taunts nor ingenuity could alter the determination of the Government.

Earl Derby objected to personalities in this debate. He asked, Why did England propose an adjournment of the arbition, and why for so long a time? The country had received the news with surprise and regret.

Earl Granville said the adjournment was made to date when Parliament and Congress would both be in session. He did not see anything alarming.

Earl Grey considered the Government censurable. He declared England ought to withdraw from the treaty unless the indirect claims were withdrawn. Loud cheers followed this declaration.

PRESS COMMENTS ON THE BOAT RACE.

LONDON, June 11.—The Times this morning, commenting on the boat race, says: "The Americans have not yet acquired the true style of rowing, and hopes they will learn it and then put English oarsmen to a severer test than that of yesterday."

The Post says: "The result shows there is nothing in rowing to learn from the Americans, who, in the preparation for the race, had every thing their own way."

The Telegraph "looks upon the race as an illustration of English national energy."

The Standard says: "The American crew is not good enough to win an ordinary country regatta."

THE PERSECUTION OF JEWS IN ROUMANIA.

NEW YORK, June 11.—A special dispatch from London says that Earl Granville, seconded by the Italian Government, has proposed a conference of European powers to consider a course to be adopted in view of the constant recurrence of barbarous outbursts against the Jews in Roumania, and the propriety of exerting a direct pressure on the Roumanian Government to compel preventive measures. Prince Gortschakoff, in reply to Earl Granville's proposal, sympathizes with the persecuted Jews, but apprehends that the course proposed would only excite agitation on the Eastern question; and that, therefore, he is not willing to enter into such a conference. He proposes a joint note to the Roumanian Government as to its intentions and guarantees that it can afford protection to the Jews, and thinks that this would awaken it to some sense of its responsibility. Should the reply to his proposal be unsatisfactory, he would suggest a settlement on the basis of the treaty of 1858. Prussia takes the same ground. The answers of other powers are not yet known, but it is probable that the suggestion of Gortschakoff will be adopted.

MEXICO.

GOVERNMENT TROOPS COMPLETELY ROUTED AT MONTEREY.

NEW YORK, June 11.—Dispatches from Mexico state that Cevallas, when he attacked Monterey, had three thousand men. He lost everything, his whole army being killed, wounded, captured or scattered. His loss includes his ammunition, artillery, trains, and $10,000 in money. This disaster has caused great depression, and the people are flying to the United States. Correllas' staff and twenty men, who are all of the Government force that escaped from the disaster at Monterey, have arrived at Brownsville, Texas. General Cevallos has retreated to Mier, pursued by the revolutionists. Trevino captured $50,000 from the Government. The revolutionists have reoccupied Monterey.

CHIEFS KILLED.

In the battle on the 3rd the rebels lost their chiefs, Rafal Herrera, Antonio Leon Garcia, Farnava, and the brother of Quiroga. The Juarists lost Colonels Regula and Alden.

SOUTH AMERICA.

VENEZUELAN REVOLUTION ENDED.

CARACAS, VENEZUELA, May 23, via HAVANA, June 11.—The revolution is at an end. After the defeat of Tivaquilla, Salazar fled, but was pursued and captured by General Colina. He was tried by a court martial composed of twenty-three officers, and sentenced to be executed on the 17th of June in the presence of the whole army.

WEST INDIES.

PREPARING FOR AN ATTACK.

The Government is concentrating troops at Cape Hayti, fearing another attack from the San Domingo frontiers. It is rumored that the Haytien Government intends to declare war against Baez, who is accused of being the instigator of an invasion of Haytien territory.

CINCINNATI.

Particulars of the Recent Tornado.

CINCINNATI, June 11.—Later information from the scene of the tornado which visited Quincy and De Graff, Logan county, Ohio, on Saturday evening, shows that it was more terrible and destructive than first reports indicated. A sultry day was followed by the appearance of a cloud in the west, about five o'clock in the evening, which gathered blackness and size with fearful rapidity. A heavy wind set in, and at half-past five the whirlwind struck the earth five miles from Quincy, moving south-easterly. The destroyer was hardly more than five minutes reaching Quincy, through which it passed, making a clean sweep of houses, trees and fences along its path, which fortunately was comparatively narrow. In this village fifty or sixty dwellings and stores, and two churches, and as many more shops, stables and out-buildings were unroofed, rocked upon their foundations or were demolished. The air was literally filled with flying boards, furniture laths and plaster. A parlor stove was caught up by the wind and hurled through the air, falling upon a woman, who was so crushed that she has since died. The Baptist and Methodist Episcopal churches were completely destroyed.

The tornado on its way to De Graff struck Bogg's flouring mill, five stories high, and containing three thousand bushels of grain, moving the building nine inches upon its foundation, carrying away the roof and part of the fifth story. It plowed its way through De Graff, scattering destruction in its path, but hurting fewer persons and damaging a less number of buildings.

After leaving De Graff it passed several settlements, missing houses, and finally rose from the earth and was seen for miles carrying in its funnel-shaped form timber, rails and debris which it had gathered in its destructive march. The papers of this morning give the names of thirty-nine persons injured in Quincy and eleven in De Graff. The list does not comprise all the injured in the former village. Mrs. Roll, reported killed in De Graff, is yet living, though her two children are killed. Mrs. Glick, of Quincy, has since died from her wounds.

The Alabama Claims.

PROBABLE FAILURE OF TREATY.

The Labor Question.

NEW YORK, June 11, 1872.

PROBABLE FAILURE OF THE WASHINGTON TREATY.

A Washington dispatch to the Herald says that the failure of the treaty of Washington, so far as it relates to a settlement of the Alabama claims, is at last conceded by the President. Secretary Fish called on the President, on the receipt of Minister Schenck's dispatch with the note of Earl Granville, as to the manner of disposing of the business of arbitration on the 15th, and the President said the only course was to meet the pretensions of the British Government in their own language. Accordingly Minister Schenck was yesterday instructed to abandon the arbitration. Mr. Schenck's instructions specify that this Government declines to become a party to a joint application for adjournment, if moved by Great Britain. This Government cannot be a party to any understanding whereby Great Britain submits her argument conditionally, the obligations of the treaty being reciprocal and unqualified. If the British Government has a desire to withdraw from the arbitration, it must do so without asking the consent of this Government. And if such notice of withdrawal, as is suggested in Granville's note, be given, it will be the duty of the American agent and Consul to repel it very decidedly in terms which self-respect will make necessary. Such notice would instantly terminate all further negotiations on the part of this Government. Messrs. Bancroft and Davis have been instructed in accordance with the above.

Later.—A Washington special says: The President before leaving to-day told a prominent Senator, a member of the Committee on Foreign Relations, that no settlement had been made with Great Britain in relation to the question of indirect claims covered by the supplementary treaty, but that he expected some definite conclusion would be arrived at in a very few days, and that in his judgment the British Ministry have no intention of allowing the treaty of Washington to fail.

THE LABOR QUESTION.

Blacksmiths and wheelwrights to the number of three hundred struck for the eight hour system to-day. Five employers have already acceded to their demands.

At a meeting of coachsmiths this afternoon it was reported that ten shops have returned to the ten hour system, and have plenty of workmen. The piano employes have resolved to persist in the strike.

The Western, Middle and Eastern States present nothing new in relation to the strikers. Singer's sewing machine works expect to open on Monday next on the ten hour system. The movement seems to be collapsing.

PERSONALS.

General Prosper M. Wetmore is reported seriously ill.

Peter Cass, Deputy Sheriff of Brooklyn, for fatally beating Wm. Jones last night, was sent to the penitentiary to-day.

J. Reavy, a lawyer, is on trial for forging mortgage deeds.

INTERESTING TO SHIPPERS.

In the first he is supposed to be giving pastoral advice; in the latter shouting "you lie, villian, you lie," to some recalcitrant opponent of pig-iron.

WASHINGTON, June 11, 1872.

TOBACCO IN WAREHOUSES.

Commissioner Douglass decides that tobacco stored in export tobacco warehouses may be withdrawn at the reduced rate on and after July 1st.

DEMOCRATS WANT DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATES.

Several prominent Democrats, about twenty-five in number, representing Virginia, Texas, Indiana, Kentucky, Illinois, Arkansas and New York, held a secret meeting last evening at the Owen House, and resolved that in the event of the Baltimore Convention endorsing the nominees of the Cincinnati Convention, that immediate steps will be taken to call another Convention for the purpose of nominating Democratic candidates for the Presidency and Vice Presidency. Their headquarters are at Indianapolis, with Col. Grey as Chairman.

HOW GRANT WROTE HIS LETTER OF ACCEPTANCE.

The President wrote his letter of acceptance of the Philadelphia nomination while at the Capitol yesterday afternoon, after his return from the Executive Mansion, where he had received the President and Vice President of the Convention. Sitting down at a table, he carefully read the letter which formally notified him of his nomination, and taking up a lead pencil, commenced writing his reply on a half sheet of letter paper. The President wrote rapidly, and when he had finished the letter, read it aloud to those present, on which they all expressed themselves highly pleased with it. A verbal alteration was suggested by one of the gentlemen present, which was accepted by the President; but with this exception the original draft of the letter bore no erasures.

EXTRA PAY.

John C. Judge Richardson promised to give the matter his attention.

THE CHARGES AGAINST SENATOR CLAYTON NOT SUSTAINED.

The majority of the special committee of the Senate to investigate the charges against Senator Clayton, of Arkansas, reported that in their opinion the charges are not sustained. Senator Norwood protests against the majority submitting a report at this time. He says the report refers only to a small portion of material evidence, and the conclusions of the majority were hastily drawn.

The Comptroller of the Currency has issued a circular calling on the national banks throughout the country for a report of their condition at the close of business on June 10.

Secretary Fish left for New York last night. He returns on Monday.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

The Washington Platform.

WASHINGTON, June 8, 1872.

It is the general opinion that the Philadelphia Platform covers a greater number of subjects, and is conceived in a more explicit and progressive spirit than any similar state paper that has ever emanated from a partisan Convention. Its earnest language concerning labor, the protection of immigrants and their considerations of the enlargement of the sphere of woman's activity, is highly commended as a bold push in the direction of national progress.

THE NOMINATIONS.

The nomination of Grant and Wilson is not merely received here with satisfaction but with enthusiasm; and our leading statesmen are confident of success, however, a thorough canvass and systematic organization are all wanted, and must not be neglected.

The manifestations have moreover come from the masses of our citizens, for the office holders have remained perfectly quiet as any demonstration by them might give countenance to the false allegations that Grant's nomination was secured by official interference.

LATEST FROM ALASKA.

Special agent Buynitzky arrived from the Seal Islands a few days since and is the bearer of very satisfactory accounts of the condition of affairs in St. Paul and St. George Islands. The inhabitants are being better housed and taken care of than hitherto, and their schools are in a flourishing condition. Not only the children are rapidly learning the English language, but also many of the grown up inhabitants.

The company that has the islands in charge seems to carry out the provisions of its lease with fairness and promptitude. There were collected $311,000 at an expense to the Government of only $5,000, including salaries and their other expenditures.

THE WASHINGTON TREATY.

The latest news is that the Government of England has reconsidered its determinatihn to allow the treaty to lapse, and that the supplemental article will be ratified and the arbitration proceed. When England expected further concession from our Government it found that it was not safe to trife with public opinion; and that if the present treaty should fail no other as favorable would be likely to be negotiated.

Our mutual money interests are so great that it will be a matter of rejoicing if the differences between England and us can be settled upon honorable terms to both nations.

THE CHICAGO POSTOFFICE BUILDING.

I have seen a perspective drawing of the new postoffice building in the Supervising Architect's room of the Treasury Department. The design is pronounced by competent judges, in whose judgment I concur, as most magnificent and powerful.

It is not yet generally known, but as the magnificent buildings now in progress will be finished, the recognition will be forced upon the people that in Supervising Architect Mullett the country has a man of genius and originality, of which it may well be proud.

A friend who traveled through Europe last summer, and saw the ancient and modern architectural achievements in the proud European capitals, informs me that the postoffice buildings at New York and at Chicago far exceed in beauty, power and splendor anything he has seen upon the European continent.

There is no living man who has such a sure future of immortality as the Supervising Architect, whose fame will increase as the magnificent structures which he has designed are handed down from century to century.

THE GERMANS AND GRANT.

It is becoming more evident from day to day that nearly all those Germans who have hitherto supported the Republican ticket will remain inside the organization during the ensuing campaign, and that should Greeley be the nominee of the Democratic party, a large number of Democratic Germans will prefer Grant to the latter.

Having recently conversed with German delegates from Philadelphia I find that party opinion among the Germans is rapidly changing Grant-ward, and if efficient means are adopted to enlighten these people in their own language a vast majority of them will attach themselves to the Republican party.

Yesterday Senator Sumner called upon Senator Wilson and congratulated him upon his nomination, stating this call was actuated by mere personal friendship, and not political motives. It is now rumored that he will support Greeley, although his friends think he will take no active part in the campaign.

Secretary Boutwell is mentioned as Senator Wilson's successor in the Senate. AGATE.

"DIED from exhaustion through want of food and proper nourishment" was the verdict of a coroner's jury at an inquest held on the body of James Sewington, a farm laborer, employed at the County Lunatic Asylum, Wandsworth, England. Deceased sometimes earned 18s. a week, but in rainy weather this amount was considerably reduced, and, as a consequence, he found his rent in arrear, and his wife and family almost without food. Anxious to get out of debt, and to support those who were dependent upon him, Sewington deprived himself of the food necessary to sustain life.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS.

The State Sabbath School Association—The Eighth Annual Convention—The Gathering of the Delegates—The Opening Days' Exercises—Large Attendance of Noted Workers—Something Practical Anticipated.

Within a few years past the Sunday School cause has attracted especial attention from church people—who seemed rather slow in discovering one of the strongest sources of power; but when the secret was discovered the enthusiasm in prosecuting all enterprises in this direction ran high, and the Sabbath School at once was raised from the merely nominal position toward the church which it had previously held, to the front of the churches most important enterprises, for good. Then the value of the concentrated effort and unity of action was recognized and sectarianism in a measure was dropped and union associations of eager workers from all the churches were formed where the subject was discussed, the best plans talked of, new theories promulgated, and a general fraternal community of interest established, which never failed to give a new impetus to the work. One of these organizations which holds its meetings yearly is the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association, composed of delegates from all the schools in the State, where a lively interest is taken in the advancement of the Sunday school. The eighth annual convention of this association commenced yesterday afternoon in the Third Presbyterian Church, Sixth avenue.

Our local sunday school workers for some time past have been actively engaged in making preparations for the gathering, and have succeeded in stirring up an unusual interest in the matter, while they have also been fortunate in securing the attendance of some of the most noted workers in the State.

The sessions of the Convention are to be held in the auditorium of the church—one of the most beautiful and commodious in our city. The room were an unusualy attractive appearance yesterday, through the efforts of some one with refined taste and deft hands, who had surrounded the facade before the organ with festoons of evergreens and white flowers, flanked the platform on either side with the largest of rustic stands, in which flowers were blooming, and filled in the decorations around the altar with brilliant boquets and rustic baskets of the most variegated appearance. The appearance of the platform through this graceful arrangement, was very much improved, while the fragrance from the flowers could not be unappreciated.

The Convention proceeded to business at half-past two o'clock, when the church was about half filled with delegates and visitors—the ladies forming a large proportion of the latter. Rev. George A. Peltz presided temporarily, and the convention hymn,

"All hail the power of Jesus' name,"

Professor William Johnson leading in the vocal exercises and presiding at the organ. Rev. Mr. Peltz then led in prayer, after which by instruction of the Executive Committee he called Rev. Robert Lowry to the Chair and named Mr. Frank Wells of Center county as Secretary. The reverend gentleman then addressed the Convention briefly on the general purpose which had called them together—to interchange views on the Sabbath School work—and urged brevity in all the exercises, practicality, and not theories in the discussions and consecration of all to the cause.

The Convention again joined in singing, and was led in prayer by Rev. Nelson Kingsbury, of Philadelphia, after which J. H. Baldwin, Esq., Superintendent of the Third Presbyterian School, Pittsburgh, delivered an earnest address of welcome to the delegates, which was very happily worded, and was full of fraternal feeling.

Rev. John D. Herr followed with prayer, after which committees were appointed as follows:

Business—Thomas Bakewell, Jr., Allegheny; Jno. R. Whitney, Delaware; J. K. Marshall, Philadelphia; Rev. R. McMilian, Lawrence; A. M. Erlinger, New York; Gen. Robert McCallister, Lehigh; and Emanuel M. Kelker, Dauphin.

Enrolment—Thomas J. Gillespie, Pittsburgh; John W. Bicket, Schuylkill; Lewis Phillips, Chester; Rev. C. Reimersyder, Lancaster; E. S. Wagoner, Cumberland; F. E. Nettleton, Luzerne; P. J. Truesdale, Warren.

The Convention then adopted for its government the rules which prevailed in previous conventions.

After devotional exercises, a discussion ensued upon the progres which had been made in the State during the year, which was participated in by Rev. Mr. Peltz, Mr. J. D. Carlisle, Rev. B. B. Hotchkiss, Rev. Mr. Wiley, Mr. Clarke, Mr. Lewis, Mr. Lafferty, Mr. Wagoner, Mr. Eslinger and others, from the various counties. The remarks were confined to a general review of the state of the work in each county, and the most encouraging reports were heard in nearly every instance. Great interest seemed to be manifested in it, and noticeably there was an increase spiritually, in all the schools, from which in many cases the results had been eminently gratifying.

At the close of the discussion, a short synopsis of it was given by the Secretary, after which the Convention adjourned with prayer by the Rev. Mr. Oxtoby.

EVENING SESSION.

After opening by singing and prayer, Rev. W. J. Stevenson was called upon to deliver his address on "The Rightful Place of the Bible," but as he was not present, Rev. P. S. Henson, of Philadelphia, addressed the convention, his subject being, "The Bible School a Necessity." He spoke of the importance of the Bible Schools, and thought that there is a work for them to do which can be accomplished in no other way. Not even family instruction, however much good it may do, can take the place of Bible instruction in classes. In bringing the children in contact with those of their own age it acts as a stimulant to exertion and study. He favored the plan of adopting uniform lessons throughout the world, and thought it would have a tendency to bring together the different denominations. We need to come at men, and boys and girls too, at "short range," and this can be done in no other way than by the Bible teaching. But the classes must not be limited to children. It is a great mistake to think that adults as well as children way not be benefited by instructions from the Bible.

After the address and singing, Messrs. T. J. French and Morris L. Stafford were elected Assistant Secretaries.

The Chairman of the Business Committee then read a dispatch from Rev. P. S. Henson, at Harrisburg, excusing his absence. The following dispatch from Philadelphia was also read:

JUNE 11.—Red Cloud and twenty-five braves who were welcomed by over five thousand people in our Academy last evening, leave this evening, spending to-morrow in Pittsburgh. Have arrangements made for them to visit the Convention. Consult with Mr. Brunot.
GEO. H. STUART.

The Chairman also announced the following programme for to-day:

Reports: 1. From county organizations. 2. From local associations in unorganized counties. 3. From organized counties. (Statistics in writing. Verbal reports, three minutes each.) Discussion: What Better can be done?

In the absence of Rev. Henson, Rev. W. J. Stevenson, Rev. Van Lennep delivered a very interesting address on the customs and manners of the Turks, illustrating his address by paintings.

After singing and prayer the Convention adjourned until nine o'clock this morning.

NOW, was it not funny that yesterday a wagon load of oil destined for Baltimore was packed in with rough pine coffins, and followed another large collection of the same ghastly boxes in a two horse truck wagon? Was there anything in the sign, or do the refiners imagine that it is necessary to ship as many coffins as barrels of oil, to provide for any exigencies which may grow out of the new departure?

THE Erie Gazette tells this about a woman in that county, who believes in her "rights" and dare maintain them." She is the lawful and undivided owner of a piece of land, and has a masculine neighbor who has some earthly possessions adjoining. She lately took it into her head that a certain piece of board fence, about twenty-five rods in length, stood upon her ground entirely; whereupon she knocked off the boards, took a team and jerked out the posts, leaving her male friend in wonder and astonishment. He dares not rebuild his fence because the woman guards her rights with a formidable 'black snake whip.

AN AMUSING ACCIDENT.

A Menagerie Thrown from the Rails—Fun and Terror.

As the great Barnum's show was leaving Erie on Saturday morning en route to Corry, says the Titusville Courier, one of the trains drawn by two engines, was thrown from the track, and both locomotives and several cars were precipitated down the bank, the two former imbedded in the earth, while the latter were completely wrecked, and the entire train with its contents received a lively shaking up. The lions roared, the monkeys chattered, parrots screamed, the great rhinoceros snorted and baled, while the less ferocious animals like the giraffe and eland, shrank trembling into corners, refusing to recognize the caresses of their keepers. Acrobats and equestrains executed feats of agility never attempted in the saw dust ring, some of them going through the car windows in their eagerness to escape.

As the accident happened about two o'clock in the morning, and the night being cloudy and dark, the confusion that reigned, must be imagined for it cannot be described. It was speedily discovered that a cage containing two Royal Asiatic lions was among the wreck, and the terrified performers were not long in ascertaining that these two monarchs of the jungle were loose and unharmed. This fact added to the terror of the scene, and a stampede for safety immediately ensued. Prof. Charles White, the celebrated lion tamer, alone remained undismayed, and immediately began perfecting arrangements to secure his pets—a feat as may be supposed, not easily accomplished. Arming himself with an ordinary rawhide, Prof. White advanced towards the spot where two unleashed brutes stood glancing ferociously about them, but he had not approached very near to them when he was greeted with a terrific roar from the male, which broke the stillness of the night in an awful and startling manner. It "meant business," as the great beast stood erect lashing his tawny sides with his tail, it was evident, that for a time at least, he was "monarch of all he surveyed." The little "kitten" or baby lion, partook of the general excitement and mewed piteously. At times the lioness would seize it in her mouth and look furiously about, as if upon the point of leaping into the darkness in search of a safe retreat, and for a time things looked squally. The lion tamer, however, was at work, and procuring a stout rope he succeeded in throwing it over the head of the male lion and in a few moments he was securely fastened to a tree. The female, however, with a perverseness peculiar to her sex, and perhaps infuriated by the recent loss of two of her "kittens," was not so tractable and showed fight, but Prof. White's determined manner soon brought her to terms, and slip-noosing the young one and slowly drawing it into an empty cage, the mother was induced to follow, and thus were both the ferocious beasts secured, and all immediate danger from them was over.

The other animals were captured without much trouble, and at about ten o'clock the show arrived at Corry, where an immense crowd of people were patiently awaiting their coming.

It is at once singular and fortunate that no one was seriously injured, nor were any very valuable animals hurt. Four cars with their contents were wrecked, and many animals let loose, but it is believed that most of them have been recaptured, the lions being the most dangerous ones that were let loose. Great credit is due to Professor White for his intrepedity, for had he been less determined, serious loss of life might have occurred through the ferocity of the two brutes that had so suddenly secured their freedom.

It was not known, until the train reached Corry that the cage containing the tigers had been harmed, but in the smash, one end of the cage had been knocked in, and when the train stopped at the depot, both tigers quietly poked their heads out, and were on the point of leaping into the crowd when they were discovered and driven back. In consequence of the delay, only two exhibitions were given in Corry, the first one taking place at three o'clock in the afternoon.

The accident was caused by a switch being out of place and both the switchman and engineer are blamed. It is probable that whoever is to blame, the railroad company will have a round bill of damages to pay.

The Latest Swindle.

The Mercer Dispatch reports that a fellow passing sometimes under the name of C. C. McBride, but having several aliases, has been "doing" some of the farmers in the northeastern part of that county. The rascal professed to be taking orders for seamless grain bags, at the low price of two dollars per dozen, and if unable to get an order for bags, offered carpets at equally ruinous rates. The blank order to be signed was so arranged that when the blank above it was filled out to suit the scoundrel's notion, it became a promissory note for from $80 to $100, payable in ninety days. These were taken to Butler county and sold to another party, who, we are told, proposes to push them when they are due. So far as heard from, some thirty of our leading farmers have been made the victims of this swindle. They will be apt to keep very cross dogs the balance of their lives, if they have these obligations to pay.

A SEVEN MONTHS' RUN,
UP, AND DOWN, AND AROUND THE WORLD.
By JAMES BROOKS. 1 vol., 12mo. Cloth, $1.75.
"It is a very lively, brightly written book. It glances at the places seen and the persons encountered in a free, brisk manner, that is often more effective than labored and elaborate description—just as an artist's free sketch has more breadth and genuine revelation of the scene than the overworked canvas. Mr. Brooks touches every picture with a sort of high light, that catches the spirit of the scene in a phrase, and these phrases are usually the happy inspiration of the moment, dotted down in pencil on bits of paper, and in this form transmitted to the Express for publication, from the columns of which they are transferred to the book without change. It is a very readable volume."
III.
Three Centuries of Modern History.
By CHARLES DRAKE YONGE, Professor of Modern History in Queen's College, Belfast. 1 vol., 12mo. Cloth. Price, $2 00.
"The object with which the present work has been undertaken is to give the youthful student some idea of the general history of Continental Europe in what may be called modern times. It is not designed to present a complete history of any one country, nor even of any one period in the history of any country. It may be compared to a skeleton chart of Europe, on which the boundaries of the different countries, the courses of a few great rivers, and the situation of some of the chief cities, are marked out sufficiently to guide the student in filling up the outline; but which, for a more precise knowledge of any separate country, leaves him to consult maps more elaborately filled up."

MEETING TO-NIGHT.

A notice will be found elsewhere of a grand ratification meeting to be held this evening, at Library Hall, at half-past seven o'clock, to endorse the nomination of GRANT AND WILSON. Governor Morton, of Indiana, will speak on the issues of the campaign, and will be followed by our own eloquent H. Bucher Swoope. The mere mention of these facts will crowd the house from pit to dome. Turn out Republicans to-night, at Library Hall, and administer a crushing blow to the double enemy at the opening of the campaign. Give us an old fashioned Allegheny county meeting of hard-fisted Republicans. Come one; come all.

GOLD closed in New York yesterday at 114@114¼.

MASSACHUSETTS has had two Presidents but only one Vice President, Elbridge Gerry, who died in office in 1814.

SENATOR SUMNER, according to Representative Walls, of Florida, told a number of colored delegates who recently waited on him, that he would not oppose any ticket on which Mr. Wilson's name was placed.

IT TOOK the Democratic State Convention in Louisiana just a week to nominate a State ticket; or rather agree with the liberal reformers on a ticket, and then the effort was only partially successful, for the L. R.'s rejected the best part of the ticket named.

EVEN Greeley men cannot be induced to stick to Greeley. Three of the Greeley Committee of New York—Messrs. Aspinwall, Draper and Laire—have withdrawn from the committee, because it is their purpose to go for Grant. These dissolving views are significant.

THE Tribune, editorially, admits that the Philadelphia ticket—Grant and Wilson—"will be hard to beat." Greeley believes in the maxim "forewarned is forearmed," doubtless, and does not underrate the work before him. He will be the worst beaten candidate in November, of any of his predecessors since the campaign of 1852, when Gen. Scott was shelved.

AN ESTIMATE of the vote in the Republican caucus of New Hampshire for United States Senator stands as follows:—Senator Patterson, 75; E. H. Rollins, 60; scattering 75. The Democratic vote is ready to jump to any Republican candidate who will "bolt" the caucus, but it requires a change of 50 votes to effect such a result as was produced in Connecticut.

THE acquittal of Doctor Huston in Baltimore, of the grave charges on which he was tried by an ecclesiastical court, is not received with general approbation in that city. The Baltimore American especially is severe in its criticism of the court, and reiterates the charges against the Doctor with fully as much vigor as it first presented them. It alleges that the verdict was a forced one by outside clerical and social influences. There may be a great deal of pride of opinion in all this, for we have observed in cases of this character, where the characters of clergymen are involved, there is on the part of very many, a ghoul like proclivity to hold on to the morsel of scandal. It is given up with reluctance even where the innocence of the accused is made manifest to impartial minds.

WE ARE bound to say that the versatile editor of the Leader—who, by the way, has a knack of getting out of tight places—shows much political ingenuity in his plan of ascertaining which of two candidates polls the largest popular vote, when the supporters of both vote the same ticket. In the first place his plan is defective, inasmuch as the majority of those whom he calculates on voting the Mongrel upside down ticket, cannot read, and therefore could not tell "tother from which." Then again, this astute political manager would butt against another difficulty in his effort to induce the tally clerks at each election district to give him the number of those who voted Democracy straight, and also those who polled it upside down. Try again, neighbor; you really amuse us. May be you will hit upon a better plan next time. If you think you could succeed in getting any Democrats of the straight sort to vote the Liberal ticket, and also that you could thereafter arrive at the popular vote by getting separate tally sheets from all the polls in the country, and promise not to gouge poor Horace too badly in the count, we would suggest, instead of reversing the order of the names on the electoral ticket to suit the tastes of the voters, that you simply print "Greeley" on the margin of one, and "Adams" on the other. No charge for the advice.

WHAT is the matter with our Fifth avenue cotemporaries? Each day we are called upon to correct their political blunders. They certainly know better, at least their responsible editors do; but perhaps these latter depend upon "carpet-baggers" for editorials, and hence the blunders. For instance our genial friends of the Dispatch—political luminaries—par excellence, speak of the next, as the 44th Congress, whilst the "smallest" chronicles the close of the recent Congressional session, naming it the "1st session of the 41st Congress." All wrong, neighbors, the recent session was the 2d of the 42d Congress, and hence the next Congress will not be the 44th, but the 43d. We make no charge for these corrections; but really, editors who aspire to represent the Republican party, should not write so recklessly. It keeps us busy in rectifying their errors. Such blundering is bad enough in independent sheets, but is inexcusable in party papers.

THE unremitting care necessary to the successful conduct of business, is illustrated in a recent exhibit of fraud and crime in New York, whereby the business secrets of a firm were obtained by a rival. A hitherto esteemed and respectable merchant has had the privilege, through the rascality of a suborned janitor, of entering the premises and overlooking the safe, and copying or abstracting the letters and most private papers of Phelps, Dodge & Co. This firm is well known throughout the country, and does a business to the amount of twenty-four millions of dollars annually. The criminal bought over some of the confidential clerks, and eventually got into the safes by means of false keys made from wax impressions. This gave him the secrets of the firm and exposes a danger little dreamed of to which men engaged in large business operations are subject. In this case the offender must be ranked as a criminal of the highest grade; he was not only dishonest himself far beyond mere thievery, but corrupted others.

THE first meeting of the newly organized Republican county Executive Committee takes place to-day, at Lincoln Club Rooms. We need not say that the most important duties are placed upon its members, who will be justly held responsible for the conduct of the campaign, and the results in the county at the October and November elections. The Committee is a large and good one; and we earnestly urge upon each member the necessity for attending the meetings, and taking an active part in the deliberations and business. The work to be done in our county this fall is by no means light, and it should not either be imposed upon, or entrusted to the judgment of a few persons, as is too often the case. The sessions of the Soldiers convention will be held in this city on the 17th of September. Members of the old armies from all sections of the country will be present at the convention, and it would be well for the Committee to provide for a grand mass meeting and procession at that time, as the effect will be electrical upon the delegations to the Soldiers convention.

END OF THE LONG SESSION.

The long session of the Forty-second Congress terminated on Monday night at nine o'clock, the hour of adjournment having been twice extended during the afternoon and evening to secure the completion of business. The prolonged and bitter struggle over the enforcement law, added by the Senate to one of the appropriation bills, was terminated by the adoption of a compromise measure, whereby the requisite two-thirds necessary to take up and pass the bill in the House were secured. The amendment extends the safeguards of the Federal election law to any county or parish in any Congressional district, and places it in the power of ten citizens to secure supervisors of election for any precinct, on application to the U. S. Circuit Judge. These supervisors are merely watchers of election, and have no power beyond witnessing the proceedings of the election boards, the count of the vote, making returns, etc. The advantage is that they can be used by the Government as witnesses.

During the session Congress has passed and the President approved between 460 and 470 bills. One of the Presidential vetoes, and a very wise one it was, frustrated what would have turned out to be the establishment of a very costly principle, viz.: payment for losses sustained by so-called Union men through military operations at the South during the war. Union men under such temptation would have multiplied, and claims have run into hundreds, possibly thousands of millions. The careful guardianship of the treasury by President Grant has saved all this. The most important legislation of the session bearing on the general interests of the country were undoubtedly the tariff and tax laws, whereby a reduction in direct and indirect taxes was made, variously estimated for the coming year at from fifty to seventy millions of dollars. The modifications of the internal revenue system will admit of the abolition of much of the expensive machinery hitherto necessary for the collection of taxes, and accordingly the new law provides for a consolidation and reduction of the internal revenue districts by the first of January next, so that the whole number in the country shall not exceed eighty. This, of course, will effect a large diminution in the cost of collection. The abolition of the tax on gas, after the first of July, and the repeal of all stamp taxes, with the single exception of the two cent stamp upon bank checks, orders and drafts, which is retained, will be cordially received by the business community. The House passed a bill repealing the franking privilege, but too late for the Senate to act on it.

Both the general bridge bill for the Ohio river and the steamboat bill, failed. General Negley succeeded on Monday in securing the passage of a bill appropriating $300,000 for the purchase of a site for public buildings in Pittsburgh, but the bill went over until the next session owing to want of time to get it through the Senate.

When Congress meets again next winter the great political contest of the year will have been decided. The record of the session is a good one, and one that the members can afford to go before their constituents on, with confidence in an emphatic endorsement. There have been fewer corrupt schemes carried through than for many sessions, and notably there has been an entire abandonment of the squander of the public lands on corporations.

THE INDIAN POLICY.

In nothing has President Grant won more of the confidence of his own countrymen, and at the same time appeased the wrath of the Western Indians, and restrained their vengeful spirit, as his policy of appointing the Peace Commissioners. They were taken from the front ranks of society, and were all noted for their kindness of heart, honesty of purpose, and cordiality of temperament. The impression was at once made upon our own people, that the President was thoroughly enlisted in the "peace policy," and that that policy would have a faithful trial at the hands of his appointees. In no less a degree was the untutored and suspicious mind of the red-men impressed with the good intentions of the whites toward their race. They had hitherto been accustomed to brilliant displays of military power, and had been held in check, if at all, through dread of punishment at the hands of the troops. But the Commissioners of President Grant without troops or show of power went among the most savage of the tribes, bent on dealing out justice to the Indian, and at once, like Wm. Penn found the way to his heart.

Indian wars since then have ceased, and a number of the tribes have applied for utensils for cultivating their lands, and teachers to learn them to read and write the English language. No one can know the greatness and extent of this victory—a victory more renowned than if achieved on the field of battle—except those who have knowledge of the extent of the loss of life and treasure through the past policy of the Government, and the obduracy of the savage heart, made bitter and malignant through years of abuse and injustice practiced by dishonest and heartless agents of the Government. We are willing to admit that the wrongs have not all come from the white man, but there is an abundance of proof that whosoever, in the past, has been to blame for outrages on the border, the old system of dealing with the Indians has long since been proved an utter and contemptible failure. Therefore is it to the honor of our good President that he, with full knowledge of all the facts, and after an experience in person on the border, wherein he must have learned and understood the wants of both whites and Indians, has established the more humane and more effective policy of the present Commission. In order to effect this change, an army of contractors, agents, sub-agents and western merchants, who, for long years, had grown rich under the previous systems, had to be overborne and displaced. All that malignity and perfidy could devise was concocted and uttered against the well meant efforts of the Commissioners, and in a thousand ways were attempts made to defeat their plans in holding the Indians at peace. At last, through the steadfast, determined adherence of General Grant to his peace policy, the enemies of the Indian and the country were defeated and driven off. The Commissioners have now full sway on the border, and the effect of their labors is magical. It affords us pleasure to be able to say that it is the present intention of the Indian Commissioners to have Red Cloud, Red Dog and the others of the Indian embassy now in the East, give a public reception in this city on Thursday evening of this week, in one of the public halls, whereat the Chiefs will tell the people what has been done for them by the Peace Commissioners, under the policy of the present administration. The public will thus be afforded an opportunity of seeing these celebrated western warriors, and hearing from their own lips the story of their wrongs, and the labors of themselves and the Commissioners to bring about a better condition of things on the border. We hope there will be a large attendance of citizens, and we shall give a full report of the proceedings and speeches, in the event of the reception taking place. Mr. Brunot, the worthy President of the Indian Commission informs us that he hopes to be able to accomplish it, and if he succeeds, due notice will be given of time and place.

MATTERS OF MOMENT.

GREELEY AND GRATZ CAMPAIGN SONG.
AIR—"The John Brown Chorus."
Do you hear our war cry sounding from the prairies of the West?

Well, no. Positively we can't say that we do. It is sad, too.—Cincinnati Commercial.

THE Louisville Courier-Journal fears that a "straight nomination at Baltimore would hopelessly demoralize the Democracy."

Anything straight would demoralize the Democracy.—No; that's wrong; they make a single exception in favor of whisky.

BISMARCK is credited with saying that even the greatest absolute monarchy can now-a-days no longer guide the complicated machine of State—he needs the help of the representatives of the press and of the people.

Which shows that these people are learning the secret of our American institutions.

YEARS AGO, when in his prime, Greeley spoke of Democracy thus: "Take all the haunts of debauchery in the land, and you will find nine-tenths of that same Democracy." * * * * "May it be written on my grave that I never was its follower and lived and died in nothing its debtor."

He nows squints Baltimorewards and is trying to make a new epitaph as the old one don't suit.

THE Cincinnati Commercial is not only "not an organ," but it will not be run as "a campaign paper." It will proceed as usual. When we propose to roll over in the dirt and indulge in a whooping ecstacy for anybody, we will advise the public of the change of heart necessary before assuming that role.—Cincinnati Commercial.

We commend this to the attention of Mr. Whitelaw Reid.

RECORDER HACKETT in New York the other day took occasion to denounce the law, which forbids the carrying of concealed weapons, and said he had made it an invariable practice to carry a revolver himself, as he believed it was the duty of all good citizens so to do. His Honor was of the opinion that the law worked only in favor of ruffians, as they, regardless of it carried the weapons, and were always ready to attack a citizen, feeling that they had him at their mercy as he was unarmed. A few practical lessons the other way from the citizens the Recorder thought would make the cut-throats more cautious.

ANOTHER Marshal of France—Jean Baptiste Vaillant—has fought his last battle. He was a centenarian, having been born in 1770. Entering the ranks of the French army after he had a thorough military education, he rose surely until, in 1851, he gained the Marshal's baton. He filled many important positions in the camp and in the cabinet, among others that of Minister of War for a number of years. In the discharge of the duties of this office he won the highest esteem of military critics everywhere, and his administration was greatly praised for its perfection, not only by his own countrymen, but by contemporaries in other lands. His "decorations" received represented nearly every order in France.

Notes About the Crops.

A correspondent of the Springfield Republican, writing under date of May 28, says:

The recent excitement in the wheat market and consequent advance in the price of that commodity, were evidently results, in a great measure, of a speculative influence. The talk of an impending flour famine is all sheer nonsense. In the first place, a large proportion of last year's harvest is still in the hands of the producers, who are awaiting anxiously for a still further advance in price. Then, again, the hue and cry echoing through the country at the present time, that the coming wheat harvest will prove a failure, is a false alarm, sounded for a purpose alike by speculators who hold large invoices of flour for sale, and by farmers who have not yet parted with their last year's crop. The report that the winter wheat was all either seriously winter-killed or subsequently destroyed by spring drought, is only correct in the most limited sense. In some parts of New York State wheat fields have suffered in part through these influences; but had every wheat field in the entire State been totally ruined in this or any other manner, the disaster should not advance the market price of wheat the value of a single penny per bushel. The fact is, New York as a wheat producing State is essentially "played out." The farmers have "wheated" soil to death. The area given to this crop has diminished rapidly during the last twenty years, while the number of bushels per acre has decreased in about equal proportion. New York farmers are nearly through with raising wheat, and it is about time they found it out. If the very best wheat lands in the State produce twenty bushels per acre, it is called a first-class crop, while ten or twelve bushels is considered a fair average harvest. The land is worn out for wheat; a majority of the farmers are learning this fact by experience, and are branching into the production of other staples. It is true that winter frosts and spring drought did injure the wheat fields of New York as well as those in some other places; but not by any means to the disastrous extent represented. Winter wheat fields in most of the wheat-producing districts throughout the Western States promise a more than average harvest, while the acreage of spring wheat in the same districts far exceeds that of any previous season. With the present amount of grain in store throughout the country, and the present prospect of a plentiful harvest, if the current price of flour is sustained it must be achieved through speculative influences alone.

In spite of the general absence of rain, grass is coming forward grandly all through the Middle States and Ohio; and if June proves a propitious month the yield of that great staple will be abundant. Everywhere in the New England States, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio the native fruits have displayed a perfect prodigality of bloom, and if one-tenth of the fruit now setting matures there is certain to be an excess of all common fruits in their season of harvest.

HENRY W. DUTTON, senior proprietor of the Boston Transcript, was foreman of the printing office of Wells & Lilly, of Boston, at the time James Gordon Bennett was employed there, and the intimacy then formed was continued. In 1810 Mr. Bennet solicited work of Mr. Dutton, stating that he was not a printer, but desired to be about a printing office and enjoy the facilities it afforded for mental improvement. The only place where he could be made useful was as copy holder to the proof-reader, and he was given that situation. He was very studious and correct, and, after about a year's service, was promoted to be clerk in a bookstore of the firm on Court street.

THE RIVAL SISTERS.

CHAPTER I.

A BEAUTIFUL BUT DANGEROUS HEROINE.

Miss Cranston, a very accomplished woman, kept a female school near Blanton, a quiet town in New Jersey. This place had been selected by Mrs. Blake, the mother of one of the Rival Sisters, as her home, on account of the reputation of the school. Mrs. Blake made her advent in Blanton in the character of a widow who had recently lost her husband, and she brought with her a daughter ten years of age, named Hester, who was placed with Miss Cranston as a pupil.

Hester Blake was a remarkable child.

Miss Cranston found her a curious study.

"If she is not tempted, all may go well with her," thought the old lady: "but if she is—" and the ominous shake of the head expressed more than words.

Mrs. Blake had fifteen hundred dollars a year, which she stated was derived from property in the South; but where it was situated, and in what place she had lived before she made her advent in Blanton, was a matter of conjecture. No amount of pumping had been successful in extracting such information from either mother or daughter.

For a few years the stranger lived almost alone, for her friendless advent among them had not inspired her neighbors with much confidence in her antecedents; but as time went on, she won upon the good opinion of those around her, and at the time my story opens, Mrs. Blake was received as a guest by the best families in the village.

People did not trust her, but they admired and pitied her; for they said "she is goodly to look at, and she has evidently been a sufferer in the battle of life." Ah! if they had known how, and under what circumstances that battle had been waged, I am inclined to think that the reputed widow would have found few friends or defenders in that straight-laced neighborhood.

The cottage occupied by Mrs. Blake stood about a mile from the town. It was a comfortable house, with a veranda in front, over which flowering vines were trained, and the large yard that surrounded it was shaded by elm-trees.

She was now dreamily regarding her daughter, who stood in front of a mirror combing out a mass of black glistening hair.

The figure of the girl was modelled after that of her mother: there was the same perfection of outline; the same sinuous, elastic movement; but the faces were not alike.

She suddenly turned, and facing her mother, said:

"The dull monotony of this place is becoming unendurable to me. I wish to see something of the world—I must see it, mother."

With a sigh, Mrs. Blake said:

"Sit down on that low chair, and try to be quiet while I speak of things I had almost determined never to reveal to you."

Hester sat down, and prepared to listen to what she had so long desired to know.

Mrs. Blake at length spoke:

"You ask me how it happened that I was cast off by the man I adored?—why he was permitted to wrong me so bitterly as to bring to his home another wife while I yet lived and suffered?

"I must go back to my early life, and tell you of myself before I became the wife of Armand Landry. My father was a dissipated, reckless man, who owned a small place near Le Bocage, as the Landry plantation was called. I was his only child. I was educated in a convent school in France, till I was nearly eighteen years old. Then my aunt took me home, having already arranged a marriage for me. I was not consulted, but I did not rebel against it, for Claude Beltot was young and good looking, and I preferred remaining in France as his wife to returning to the dullness of plantation life.

"My father gave me twenty thousand francs as my dower, and Beltot expected to get much more from him. I think that prospect induced him to marry me, for I soon found that he was as indifferent to me as I was to him.

"Indifference soon merged into contempt on my side, and something like aversion on his. We had evidently made a wretched mistake, and we were glad to separate by mutual consent. I returned to Louisiana, and Beltot went to Algeria.

"When I came back to my early home I found my father living as recklessly as ever.

"Among the young men who came to his house was Armand Landry. He was two years younger than I, for he had not completed his twentieth year when I first met him. He soon forsook the gaming table to linger near me, and I—well—I was mad enough to give him the heart my husband had never tried to win. I loved him to that degree that I thought life would be worthless unless it was shared with him.

"Armand seemed devoted to me, but he never asked me to marry him. He knew that his proud old father would look with scorn on the daughter of such a man as my father was.

"My father swore that Armand should yet be my husband, and for that purpose he obtained a divorce for me from Beltot. I was so infatuated that I cared little by what means Armand was to be ensnared, provided I became his wife. I entered into his plans, shameful as they were, and allowed myself to be united to a man who had been lured again to our house, and when incapable of acting for himself, was pronounced my husband by a missionary who had been so short a time in the country that he knew nothing of the wrong he was helping to carry into effect. He was brought to the house a few moments before the ceremony was performed, and left immediately afterward.

"A time had been chosen when the elder Landry was absent from home. I believed that Armand loved me as truly as I did him.

"It was several weeks before he recovered all the natural energy of his mind, and I began once to fear that he would be permanently injured by the drug I had permitted to be administered to him. But the time came when he fully understood the position in which he was placed, and then—such scenes as passed between us I cannot describe. He fiercely resented the part I had taken in entrapping him into a marriage that would be odious to his proud father, and declared that he could never forgive me.

"Vainly I tried all my powers of fascination to enthrall him, and win forgiveness from him.

"As soon as he was well enough to leave the house, he went off in search of his father, in spite of all I could do to detain him. His father instituted proceedings for a divorce, after sending Armand to Europe to make a tour, in company with Mr. Russell and his two daughters.

"When I heard that, I was devoured with jealousy; for Ellinor Russell was the young lady who had been chosen by Mr. Landry for his son's wife, and report said that she was both rich and charming. I afterward learned that he was betrothed to Miss Russell.

"When this happened you were but a few weeks old, and I was left with you to take care of, and little enough to do it with.

"Ah! how I hated that fair beauty who had caused me so much woe! Many a night, after you were asleep, have I stolen from my cottage and made my way to the stately home in which that woman dwelt, surrounded by loving care that of right belonged to me. Concealed in the shrubbery I have listened to his voice speaking to her in accents of deeper tenderness than he had ever used to me, and I vowed within my soul that I would find means to blight the happiness they seemed to find in each other. They were married.

"My hate culminated when a daughter was born who was destined to fill the place in your father's house of which you had been defrauded.

"Your half-sister is two years younger than you, and in your childhood you were so much alike that but for the difference in size, you might have been taken for twins.

"Armand's joy in this new treasure was soon turned to sadness, for the health of his wife began to fail. She faded slowly away with a mysterious disease. Everything was tried that promised relief, but the spell of an evil eye was upon her, and there was no help for her.

"The doctors said it was the climate that did not suit her, but I knew better than that.

"She was taken away for a change of air, but Zelma, the woman that went with her as nurse, was one of the slaves that had belonged to my father, and was devoted to me.

"Mrs. Landry lingered for many months, but she at last died, when you were five years old.

"The years passed on, and Armand was traveling in Europe, rarely writing home, and never sending me a line.

"You were ten years old when he came back. Zelma was dead, and I felt safe now that the only one who could accuse me of instigating the death of Ellinor Russell was gone.

"But all my hopes were fearfully dashed to the earth; for he brought with him a young wife, a cousin of Ellinor's, and also an heiress. They stopped in New Orleans, and from there Armand wrote to me the following lines:

"NEW ORLEANS, October 30th, 18—.

"I write to you, Hagar, to say that no option will be allowed you as to your removal from the vicinity of me and mine.

"I came back to my native land, bringing with me a cousin of my lost one as my wife, the resemblance in person and character between the two attracting me irresistibly to Helen.

"I might have taken her to Le Bocage to meet the same terrible fate, had I not here encountered the p[…]ttended Zelma in her last illness […]ced her confession.

"Ah, my heart, […] write it! "Go far away—[…] daughter. "I am not ric[h …] own right, but when she is old [… to] marry, I will give her a suitable dowry[…] This is all I can, or will do.

"ARMAND LANDRY."

"I had nothing to do [but] obey Armand's command," contin[ued Mrs.] Blake, "and so I came hither w[ith you,] where we have lived till now. Th[is is my] history."

CHAPTER II.

A PHYSICIAN IN LOVE [WITH] THE DAUGHTER—A FIENDISH PLOT.

There was residing [in th]e same village with Mrs. Blake and [her da]ughter a physician, twenty-eight or [thirty] years of age—Dr. Macon—who for two years had been ardently in love with [the] daughter. She had toyed and trifled with him during all that time; but he had firmly insisted upon a decided answer to his suit, and on that very evening he was coming to learn his fate. As he approached the house he overheard the voices of mother and daughter engaged in close conversation, and drawing near to the window and eagerly listening, he had obtained full possession of the terrible secret of Mrs. Blake's life. Madly in love, and utterly unscrupulous, he at once determined to make any use which might be necessary of his newly acquired advantage to secure the hand of Hester.

On that very evening Dr. Macon was engaged to take tea with Mrs. Blake and her daughter; but the old housekeeper returned from the village with the intelligence that a shocking railroad accident had occurred in the vicinity, and the Doctor had hastened off to the assistance of the wounded.

On the return of Dr. Macon he called upon Mrs. Blake and surprised her with the information that among the hurt was Armand Landry, mortally injured! He was accompanied by his daughter, the half-sister of Hester, and she had been stunned by a blow on the head. They were both lying at a farm-house near by, and Mr. Landry, knowing that he must die, had requested that Hester should visit him the next morning, that he might inform her of the pecuniary provision which he had made for her support.

And now was concocted one of the most fiendish plots ever devised by the human mind. It was suggested by Mrs. Blake, and was acquiesced in by Dr. Macon and Hester, that the half-sister, who was still unconscious, should be kept in a state of imbecility by drugs which the Doctor should skillfully administer to her for that purpose, and Hester—whose resemblance to her was so close as to defy detection—should usurp her place as heiress of the immense estates entailed upon the half-sister through her mother.

The inducement to Dr. Macon was Hester's promise, on the accomplishment of the scheme, to become his wife.

But when Hester came to read over the letters which lay concealed in the bottom of her half-sister's trunk, she found among them several from Raymond De Lorme, a handsome young man whom she remembered as her own first lover at the South, when she was little more than a mere child. These letters were written in a most impassioned strain, and showed that between him and his fair correspondent—Estelle Landry, Hester's now stricken half-sister—a marriage engagement existed.

No sooner had Hester discovered this fact than her old love for DeLorme was rekindled, and she resolved at once to have him also, as well as Estelle's fortune, let whatever obstacles might be in the way. He was now absent in Europe, to remain a year or two, and her purpose must be most carefully concealed from Dr. Macon; but, come what would, the young man should yet be hers!

Mrs. Blake's housekeeper, Mrs. Muller, a German woman with an American education, was a great gossip, and a cunning, selfish, evil-minded woman. Hester, at her mother's suggestion, had turned the key on the outside of Mrs. Muller's sleeping room, while their infernal plot had been planned; but the suspicious woman happened to be awake, and she had risen, and emerging through a window, crept around where she could listen to all they said. She too, now, meant to have her profit out of the scheme, the secret of which she had obtained unknown to them.

On the following day Mr. Landry felt his end rapidly approaching. He had forbidden peremptorily that Mrs. Blake should be admitted to his presence; but Mrs. Blake had determined to see him before he died. He was very anxious for a confessor; and was finally told that although there was no priest accessible, a Sister of Charity might be obtained. This assurance afforded him great relief, and he desired that no time might be lost in sending for her.

Mrs. Blake determined to improve this opportunity to see him, without his recognizing her, and to visit him in the disguise of a Sister.

It was arranged that after night, when the room was dimly lighted by a single candle, she should go in and listen to such confessions as he wished to make. In them, if he spoke of her tenderly, compassionately, she would forego the dire vengeance she had planned to inflict on him when he lay helpless before her, breathing his soul away in doubt and dread of what the future life might bring him. If he judged her hardly and cruelly at the last, she would have no mercy on him.

When Eunice, a deaf and dumb servant girl at the farm house, was safely asleep, Mrs. Blake made such alteration in her dress as was necessary. A white handkerchief was drawn low down on her forehead, and folded over her face in such a manner as to conceal the greater portion of it, and Macon's black silk cravat was smoothed out and tied over that, in the form of the hoods worn by Catholic nuns when walking abroad. She then entered the feebly lighted room and sat down in the chair which Hester resigned at her approach. At the movement, the dying man unclosed his eyes, and in a faint voice, said:

"How good you were to come to me in this extremity. This young girl has explained to me that you consented to do so as soon as you heard that a son of Mother Church needed your help;" but some subtler power must have conveyed to him the knowledge that something inimical had approached him, for he suddenly seemed to struggle with some deadly oppression, and sinking back, he murmured:

"Too late! I fear that I shall die before I can say what I wished. I must confess—I must have absolution, for I have sinned. But I have suffered—how bitter a cup I have drained in atonement of the one act of my life which brought unhappiness to one who thought she had the right to avenge herself upon me."

In a voice scarcely above a whisper, Mrs. Blake said:

"My son: forgive as you hope to be forgiven, and all will be well with you."

"Ah! that is what I cannot do, for there is one sin and one sinner that I have not forgiven. But for that I could die in peace."

"Was the wrong against you so unmerited, that you feel thus bitterly?"

"Unmerited! Yes, I assert that and I believe it. She who committed it was one I did not love, though I was tricked into a marriage with her."

In a faltering voice Mrs. Blake said:

"You did not love her! Are you quite sure of that?"

Landry was too deeply absorbed in his own thoughts to notice the menacing tone that thrilled through the muffled voice of the speaker.

"No, I never loved her."

"Is it just to lay all the blame upon the woman who risked so much to gain a legal claim upon you? To those who have loved truly, much should be forgiven; and she, you say, loved you."

"I gave her all that she had a right to claim at my hands—and had she so willed it, I would have sent her from me as free from reproach as in the hour of our first unfortunate meeting. But she would not go. I was very young. I loved the child she gave me, and through her the mother hoped, if I were free again to win me back, and—and I cannot tell you what she did in return for the forbearance I had shown toward her. It is her secret, and I will not reveal it even in this hour, but it is that which I now find it impossible to forgive. If you can give me absolution, knowing that, I will accept it gladly at your hands, although you are not one of the accredited ministers of our Holy Church."

The heart of Mrs. Blake hardened as she listened. She felt the blood surging through her veins with fiery swiftness, and all the passion of her tropical nature burst forth.

She tore the shrouding folds from her head and face, and started to her feet, standing over him as a menacing fate, as she mockingly said:

"Such consolation as I can give, you are welcome to, Armand Landry. Whether it will facilitate your entrance to the Paradise in which your lost Ellinor dwells, or into the Hades in which I shall hereafter claim you, I leave you to imagine. Look at the woman you cast off so lightly—the woman who believed that you loved her—and cower before her glance as you will shrink before that of the Omnipotent Being who will judge between us."

"You—you here! he exclaimed, in a loud, harsh voice. "How dare you approach me? How dare you profane the sacred character you have assumed for the purpose of intruding upon a presence that was forbidden you? Hagar Blake, you have been the curse of my life, and in death you persecute me still. Go! I command you to leave this room unpolluted by the presence of a murderess."

Hagar's eyes blazed back defiance, and she tauntingly said:

"You are in no position now to enforce your will. You are in my power, not I in yours, and I intend to pay you back drop for drop, for all the bitterness you have poured into my cup and forced me to drink."

The features of Landry were blanched to the hue of death, and his black eyes gleamed fiercely from their pallid setting, as he hoarsely asked:

"By whose connivance were you permitted to enter here? If Hester or her betrothed husband aided you, it will be the worse for them, for in that case I will give her nothing. The paper I caused her to write this morning will be valueless unless it is signed and witnessed, and now I will do neither."

"Oh, you threaten me with consequences, do you?" she mockingly asked; "but let me insure you that it is a matter of indifference to me, and to my daughter, whether that paper is valueless or not. We have settled our plans, and rave against them as you may, you will be powerless to prevent them from being carried into effect. Hester will not accept the paltry provision you have so magnanimously made for her; she will claim what is hers, in justice at least—the half of the estate which is now held by your other children."

"Woman! what do you mean by that? Ah! my God?" have I fallen into a den of thieves! Is there no one to help me?"

His voice broke suddenly, and he fell back upon his pillows gasping for breath.

"No one!" repeated Mrs. Blake, with stern emphasis. "You are in this solitary country house, entirely at my mercy, and that of those who are willing to do all that I wish. The darling daughter on whom you have lavished so much indulgence lies stricken into idiocy by the injuries her head has received. She will never more walk the earth in pride, looking down in scorn upon the sister whom you have bequeathed to her compassion. In place of that, I have decreed that the two shall change places, and the child of your adored Ellinor shall stay with me, while my daughter assumes the station of the heiress, and wears the honors of her father's house. The two sisters are so much alike that no one will ever be able to distinguish the true one from her counterfeit."

The listener felt that the shock of this announcement had shortened his brief span of life; he knew that the death clutch was already on his vitals; but he rallied his last remaining strength, and said, with solemn emphasis:

"If you consummate this wickedness, I leave to you, and to the imposter who will take the place of my darling, my undying malediction. God is over all, and he will not permit such villainy to go unpunished, even in this world."

Mrs. Blake unclosed her lips to reply, but Landry raised his hand appealingly, a change passed over his sunken face, and with a prayer on his lips in behalf of his favorite child he passed away.

Hester arrayed herself in a black dress which she found in Estelle's trunk, and assuming the name and character of her half-sister, prepared, on the following day to accompany the remains of her father to New Orleans for burial, in company with Herbert Spencer, a young man from Boston, a cousin of Raymond De Lorme's, who had been sent on by family relations for that purpose. What happened there, and indeed the whole of the thrilling story of the rival half-sisters, Hester and Estelle, will be found in the New York Ledger, which is now ready and can be had at the book-stores and news depots. Ask for the number dated June 23, and in it you will get the continuation of the story from where it leaves off here.

Sickness of Forty Years' Duration Cured.

The cure related below is one of a very remarkable kind, on account of its long duration, and is well worthy of the attention of all those who may be afflicted with chronic disease of any kind, showing clearly that all such cases can be cured. It is that of Jacob Wagner, a respectable farmer, aged 63 years, of New Sewickley township, who has been in gradually failing health for a period of about forty years. The disease manifested itself by a continued cough and a wasting state of health, which, about the beginning of last October, culminated in an attack which showed that the lungs were becoming seriously affected. Mr. Wagner, in this state of his case, applied to Dr. Keyser, of this city, who, by a system of medicine of a restorative kind, has completely cured him and restored him to a state of health to which he has been a stranger for many long and weary years. His cure is thorough and complete, and evinces an amount of skill and perseverance in the treatment of such cases, by Dr. Keyser, which is rarely if ever attained in a life time. The cure was chiefly effected by Dr. Keyser's Lung Cure, and is another of the many instances of the wonderful restorative power of that medicine, in the cure of every disease of long standing, especially those in which the pulmonary organs and the blood are deteriorated.

Dr. Keyser's office is at 167 Liberty street, in the rear of his Drug Store, from 10 A. M. until 1 P. M., and from 3 until 6 P. M., and on Saturday's at night. A treatise on Lung Diseases sent wherever it is wanted.

CAUSELESS DEPRESSION.

This expression is often used, but it is manifestly absurd. Gloom and melancholy are not spontaneous. They are unnatural mental conditions and usually have corresponding causes. If there is no apparent reason for despondency, it is a symptom of physical disease. In nine cases out of ten the stomach, the liver and the bowels are responsible for the cloud which rests upon the brain. In all such cases immediate and permanent relief may be obtained by the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. If the digestive organs are weak an invigorant is necessary; if the liver is disordered an alterative is required; if the bowels are constipated or irregular a gentle aperient is needed. In that famous vegetable remedy these three medicinal properties are commingled with several others of a scarcely less important character, and hence it speedily cures every species of hypochondria arising from material causes, by removing the causes themselves.

In the summer, when disorders of the stomach and bowels, bilious complaints and all diseases which affect the assimilating and secretive organs are especially prevalent, the importance of having this invaluable tonic, alterative and corrective in every dwelling, and within the reach of all who travel by land or water, cannot be overestimated. As it is a staple article throughout the country it would be next to impossible to find a settlement, near or remote, unprovided with a stock of this vegetable tonic.

DAILY GAZETTE.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, TUESDAY, June 11, 1872.

The local money situation presents no new phases. The banks are in a most comfortable condition, able to meet the wants of those having claims on them, and also in most instances with some surplus for outside manipulations. As the heat of summer runs up the thermometer, the plentitude of money relaxes the rates of interest, and capitalists who generally refuse to lend under one per cent. a month, are feeling comfortable in getting employment during the heated term for their funds at bank rates.

The present rise in our rivers is putting a bright face on our coal men, who are actively engaged in getting their fleets ready to float them away to ports below. This rise is not big enough to get the heavy boats off, but all that can go on six feet of water will be sent forward immediately. This rise is very propitious, and will enable the coal men to stretch out until the Autumn rains sets in, and gives them sufficient water to reach the southern ports, at which time of the year there is always an active demand for fuel, as all who are able to lay in a sufficient supply to keep them comfortable during the inclemency of the Winter months.

The general trade of the city continues fair, and the expectation of a still higher premium on gold causes less hesitation on the part of buyers than is generally exhibited at this season of the year. Some of the iron men show a little trepidation in regard to metal, but the most shrewd amongst them aver that they can see nothing at present to create an opinion that there will be any serious decline in metal for some time to come. There are now in transit thirty thousand tons of Scotch pig to arrive in New York. It is stated, on good authority, that there is a party who has already arranged to buy it up before it arrives, so that it is not likely that the market will be affected to any great extent by this shipment.

In local securities we notice Pittsburgh water loan bonds at par, with accrued interest.

The money markets of the eastern and western cities are all reported in good condition.

The Boston Post of the 10 inst. says: Perhaps we might as well say that the best commercial paper ranges from 6 to 7 per cent. discount; for choice factory promises and others supposed to be equally good have been passed to a considerable extent to-day, at 6 per cent., while some of the banks and individual lenders find plenty of good borrowers at about 7. Under such circumstances, it would be rather singular if there were no transactions at 6½.

The Philadelphia Ledger quotes strictly first-class endorsed paper, from sixty to ninety days, 6 to 7 per cent., and for four months' paper of prime credit 6½ to 8 per cent. Single-name paper sells at 8 to 10 per cent.

The imports into New York last week amounted to $6,182,999. The shipments of specie last week amounted to $3,782,639.94. The favorable bank statement last week, for the city of New York, has had an exhilerating influence on trade, and mercantile business was never more promising. We have a report of a gold lode in Colorado, that recently sold for $100,000, and which is now producing at the rate of $3,000,000 per annum.

NEW YORK, June 11, 1872.

Gold after selling at 113⅞c closed active and firm at 114@114⅛c; loans were from 1 to 3 per cent. for carrying. Clearings $25,000,000. Governments dull and a fraction lower. State bonds dull and firm. Money easy: 4@5. On Stock Exchange dullness was the chief feature; the fluctuations were unimportant. The Express says Erie was weak during the early part of the day on a decision in the Court of Common Pleas, which is understood in Wall street as making the company responsible for the indorsed bonds of the Boston, Hartford & Erie road. At the close the market was firm at the best prices of the day.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, TUESDAY, June 11, 1872.

ASHES—Market quiet and unchanged: Common Soda Ash, 4⅛@5c; Refined, 6@6¼c; Nitrate, 5c; Pots, 10c; Pearls, 11c.

APPLE BUTTER—Sales, in a jobbing way, at 65 to 70 per gallon for fair to prime, and 75 for choice.

BUTTER—Continues very dull, but there is no quotable change in prices; solid packed, 10 to 12; roll, 13 to 15. Commission houses are discouraging shipments.

BEANS—In limited supply, and steady, with regular sales at $2.75 to $3.25 per bushel.

BROOM CORN—Continues dull, but dealers, in view of the fact, that the purchases for several months have been very meagre, are expecting an early improvement in the demand; we continue to quote at 5 to 8 cts per lb.

CHEESE—Is coming in more freely, but with a steady demand, there is no accumulation of stock, and prices are fully sustained; Dairy, 11 to 12; Factory, 13½ to 14; Goshen, 14 to 14½.

CARBON OIL—Is quiet and unchanged—the jobbing trade is always light at this particular time; we continue to quote at 18 to 20 cents by the car load, and 2 to 3 cts additional for small lots.

COUNTRY BACON—Continues very dull, and prices are weaker. Country Lard, 7½ to 8cts.

CANNED GOODS—Peaches, 3 lb cans) $6,00 to $7 per case; Tomatoes $4,50@5; Corn, $5,50@$6,50, according to quality and brand.

CEMENT—Louisville $2,50 to $2,75; Calcined Plaster $4,50; Cleveland white Lime, $2; eastern, $1,75.

DRIED FRUIT—Peaches continue very dull, and they are about out of season; prices, however, are nominally unchanged; 8½ to 9 cents for halves; 6 to 7 for quarters, and 15 to 18 for peeled. Apples in limited supply, may be quoted at 9 to 11 cts. Blackberries, 14 to 15; pitted Cherries, 25 to 28; unpitted, 6 to 8.

EGGS—Quiet and unchanged; 17 may be regarded as the ruling quotation for fresh—guaranteed.

FEATHERS—No. 1 may be quoted at 75 to 80 cts ℔; mixed stock, 40 to 60 cts.

FLOUR—Is quiet and unchanged. Spring wheat $8,75 to $9,25 for fair to choice, and $9,50 to $10 for Winter. The demand continues light, being restricted mainly to supplying immediate wants. Rye Flour is unchanged at $5,75 to $6.

GRAIN—While there does not as yet seem to be much inquiry for Wheat, the market, as noted in our last report, in view of the diminished receipts and offerings, is growing stronger, and the general impression at present is that prices will be fully sustained, and perhaps advance. Oats continue dull, and prices are weak and drooping; we now quote at 50 to 51 cts, a decline of 3@4 cts within the past few days. However, while there is no disputing the fact, that the market is very dull and considerably overstocked at present, dealers generally anticipate an improved demand, and perhaps better prices, within the next sixty days. Shelled Corn is also dull and may be quoted at 63 to 65 cts. Sale of 3 cars at 65 cts. Rye is unchanged at $1 to $1,05 and quiet.

GROCERIES—Trade continues rather quiet, and no immediate improvement can be reasonably anticipated. Coffee continues firm, and the tendency is upward; however, the demand is light, though this is not unusual at this season of the year. Sugars, Molasses, Syrups, unchanged.

REFINED SUGARS.—Standard Hards, 12⅛; A Coffee, 11¾; B, 11⅝; Ex C, 11½; C Yellow and Circle C, 11⅜. These quotations are for straight brands.

COFFEE.—Rio—Choice, 26@26¼; Prime, 25@25½; Good, 24½; Fair, 24. Java, 28. Roasted, pure, 28; lower grades, 25@26.

RAW SUGARS.—Choice New Orleans, 11@11¼; Prime, 10½; Good, 10; Fair, 9¾. Choice Porto Rico, 10½; Prime, 10¼. Demerara—Choice, 11⅜; Good, 11¼.

NEW ORLEANS MOLASSES.—Choice, 80; Prime, 75; Good, 70; Fair, 65.

SYRUPS.—Fancy White Drips, 65; White Honey, 60; Havemeyer & Elder's, 53@55; other grades, from 40@50.

RICE.—Carolina—Choice, 9½; Prime, 9¼; Good, 9. Rangoon, 8@8¼. Patna, 8½@9.

SPICES.—Grain Pepper, 24; do Pimento, 16; Cassia, 50; Cloves, 25; Nutmegs, $1,25.

HAY—Continues very dull, while the receipts for some days past days have been comparatively light, the supply is still largely in excess of the demand; we now quote at $22 to $25 for common to good, and $27 to $28 for prime. It is claimed that oats are much cheaper than hay, and we presume that this is not without its effect in curtailing the demand for the latter; however, some dealers regard hay, in anticipation of a light crop, as good to hold.

HEMP—Kentucky rough at $120 per ton.

POTATOES—There was rather more inquiry to-day, as there were a good many wanted to supply the coal fleet, and some dealers were enabled to work off a good deal of their old stock; however, the supply is still largely in excess of the demand, and prices are no better, and not likely to be.

POULTRY—Live Chickens may be quoted at 75 to 85 cts per pair, by the coop.

PROVISIONS—Plain shoulders, 6cts; sugar cured do, 8cts; ribbed sides, 8 cts; clear rib, 8½cts; clear, 9 cts. Breakfast Bacon, 10½@11cts; plain sugar cured hams, 12¼; do, canvased, 12½. Lard; in tierces, 9¾; in kegs, 10¼; in buckets, 11¼. Mess Pork, 14½. Dried Beef, 17¼. Ham sausage, 10.

RAGS—Sales at 4@4½cts per lb.

SALT—Quoted at $1,85 per barrel by the car load, and $2 in a jobbing way.

SEEDS—There is a steady demand for Flaxseed and market fair. No movement in either Clover or Timothy Seeds.

TALLOW—Rendered 7½ to 8 cts.

WILLOWS—Offerings light; sales in a small way at 10 cts.

WHISKY—Highwines, in a jobbing way, may be quoted at 92@93 cts.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, TUESDAY, June 11.

The market continues very quiet, and prices are weak, and, as compared with yesterday, are a shade lower. Crude was quoted at $3,95 per bbl at Parker, which is the lowest point it has touched for some time. Refined is also weak and lower; spot, 22⅞; June, 23. There seems to be no inquiry for future delivery, and there is no disposition to sell except for near by deliveries.

Regular shipments are now being made to Baltimore via the Connellsville road.

Dry Goods.

NEW YORK, June 11.—The week has opened quiet, and no special alteration has taken place. The printing cloth market is firm at prices previously quoted. Printing cloths appear to have reached the highest point compatible with the transaction of business, doing execution of such orders as come in, and in some grades, especially in seconds, are fully as dear as for spot goods, which would appear to indicate confidence in the sustainment in prices in that direction; Hill's 4-4 bleached sheetings are quoted at 17c. Foreign goods dull, but the demand for silks and ribbons is much better. Most of the woolens, worsteds and alpacas are being warehoused to await the action of the new tariff bill. Foreign spool cottons are unchanged, as the tariff, it is believed, just enables them now to sell at a fair profit. At auction there was a fair attendance, and the following figures were realized: real Lama shawls $10,25, $18,25, $19,75, $27, and $29,50; No. 5 silk ribbons 95c to $1,12, according to color; No. 7 $1,60; No. 9 $2,05 to $2@7. Other imported goods as formerly, with very little coming in.

Hogs: receipts, including reported arrivals, 1,100; market steady; fair business being transacted at a shade lower prices than prevailed last week, all offerings finding purchasers; sales of 225 Indiana hogs, 177 to 202 lbs, at $4,02½@4,15; 110 Ohio, 182 lbs, $4,10; 518 Illinois, 147 to 221 lbs, $4,12½@4,20; freight on live stock on the New York Central and Harlem Railroads increased $10 per car this week.

RIVER NEWS.

The river continues to rise steadily at this point, with 7 feet 2 inches in the channel last evening. It is expected that there will be 8 to 8½ feet to-day, and if so, a large amount of coal will be started. The weather yesterday was clear and pleasant, and all that could be desired for out-door business.

There have been no arrivals except a number of towboats. The Carrie Brooks is due from Wheeling.

The Juniata departed for Cincinnati with a good passenger trip, and a fair amount of freight. She will arrive at Cincinnati on Friday, and start up again on Saturday.

We regret to be called upon to announce the death of Mr. Wm. F. Blackstock, who was a well-known steamboat clerk. For several years, however, he was not engaged on the river, and to many river men had been lost sight of.

The Mollie Ebert, Capt. G. W. Ebert, is announced to take her departure for St. Louis forthwith. She is a large and capacious boat, and is admirably adapted for the Pittsburgh and St. Louis trade.

Capt. R. D. Cochran, one of our oldest and most highly esteemed steamboatmen, died on Sunday, and was buried yesterday. Capt. Cochran built and commanded a number of very fine boats but for the past 10 or 12 years, he was engaged in the oil business, and had succeeded in amassing considerable wealth. He was highly respected and esteemed by all who enjoyed his acquaintance, and his death, although not unexpected, will be deeply regretted by a large circle of relatives and friends.

The Lucy Bertram departed for Pomeroy flying light, to assist the St. Johns up with her tow of iron ore.

—The New Orleans National Republican, of Thursday says: "The palatial steamer Great Republic backed out last evening amid a furious rain, accompanied by the most vivid lightning flashes. She had proceeded on her way but a few lengths, however, when Jove sent one of his bolts crashing through the projecting roof of the hurricane deck, scattering splinters in its course many of which dropped into the lifeboat suspended below. But this grand formidable river structure, nothing disconcerted, fiercely blew her whistle, and steamed away on her upward course. If she can thus defiantly spurn, as it were, the fiery challenge from the heavens above, what concern need she have of unknown dangers from the waters below? A lady sitting at a stern window of the boat was stunned by the lightning, but she soon after recovered.

—Since July 1, 1865, to April 1, 1872, the statistics of Shreveport show a total of 221 steamers, with an aggregate tonnage of 64,234 tons. They have averaged at the wharf at Shreveport 300 landings per annum, with an average tonnage of 81,000 tons, carrying each an average crew of thirty persons, making a total of 9,000 per annum. The period covered being nearly seven years, gives the total amount of tonnage as being 588,006 tons; the total number of bales of cotton shipped as being over 1,000,000, to say nothing of the immense quantity of cattle and produce generally.

—A new steamboat hull for low water service in the St. Francis is in course of construction at Deep Landing, one hundred miles above Wittsburg, on the St. Francis river. The hull is 100 feet long, 25 feet beam, 3 feet hold, and will have a capacity of nearly 150 tons. The machinery of the Lady Withaup, which steamer sunk near the above landing about a year since, is to be used in the boat, which will be finished and ready for duty in a few weeks. She takes the place of the St. Francis, under Capts. Bowman and Berry.

—The Cincinnati Commercial says: We perceive a novel shipment from New Orleans in the shape of 200 bbls of pork, on the steamer Louisville for Cincinnati, and parties were negotiating here yesterday with Captain Rusk, of the H. S Turner to bring here from New Orleans another lot of 1,000 barrels—Cincinnati brand. This may appear pork is higher in Cincinnati than in New Orleans or New York.

—The Memphis Avalanche says: The capacious maw of the Belle Lee for fuel astonished the wood choppers of the White River country, so that it made their hair stand. She cleaned out every wood pile going up, and on her way out the woodmen raised rates on her. It will take the cutters all summer to fill up their depleted wood ranks.

—The St. Louis Republican of Friday, says: The John F. Tolle loads independently for New Orleans, and will be followed by the Mollie Moore and Henry C. Yeager. The Thompson Dean was towed to the barrel works yesterday, preferring to lay up rather than carry freight at the present low rates.

—A mammoth steam elevator wharf boat, now being built on the Ohio, is to be located at Memphis. It is 300 feet long, 80 feet wide, and two stories high. The Avalanche says it has capacity to store 5,000 bales of cotton in the second story alone, and that it has sixteen steam elevators.

—The citizens of Peoria, Ill., were astonished last Friday morning at seeing logs and drift floating up the Illinois River with as great velocity as they ever floated down. It was owing to heavy rains which filled the tributaries below and created back water.

—The Northwestern Union Packet Company will have a wharfboat at St. Louis, independent of that of the Northern Line. It is built on the hull of the defunct Burlington.

—Barmore, of Jeffersonville is contracting to build for the Mound City Ferry Company a new hull 105 feet long, 35 feet beam, and 4½ feet hold, with recess stern wheel.

—The Muskingum River packet J. H. Best goes on the docks at Pomeroy.

The Gardner Fire Extinguisher.
The Ed. Journal of the Franklin Institute, April, 1872, says: "The Gardner Extinguisher seems to us to be well worthy of commendation, inasmuch as it combines all the good qualities of other machines with the special advantages of greater convenience of form, security of the stop-cocks from the action of the materials employed and of the perfect control of the stream of gas, and we can indorse it as the most practical of any yet made public."
The Gardner is rapidly superseding the old-fashioned extinguishers.

Coroner's Inquests.

Coroner West, yesterday, held an inquest on the body of John Trainor, who was crushed to death at an early hour yesterday morning by the fall of a "horseback" in the coal mines of Joseph Keating, in East Birmingham. A verdict of accidental death was rendered. Deceased was thirty-eight years of age, and leaves a widow and three children.

The Coroner also held an inquest on the remains of James Ward who fell from the roof of a building on Second avenue, nearly opposite the Gas works, sustaining injuries of which he died yesterday afternoon. The verdict was also accidental death. Ward was forty-four years of age, and leaves a widow and five children. He was a resident of the Twelfth ward.

The Jenkins Inquest.

In our report of the inquest held at Mansfield last week, on the remains of young Jenkins, killed on the railroad near that place, we made a statement that Dr. Walker, of Mansfield, had held a post mortem examination of the corpse, and that the county would have to pay for the same. A thorough investigation of the circumstances of the case leads us to believe that this statement was erroneous, and that in justice to Dr. Walker we owe him a retraction. It appears that the gentleman is the surgeon of the Pan Handle road, and that it is part of his duties as such, to take a particular memorandum of all cases which come under his care, noting the character and extent of the injuries received by those who are the subject of accidents. This was done in the case of young Jenkins, and the memorandum was read by the Doctor to the Coroner's jury in order that they might act intelligently in the case. No post mortem was made by Dr Walker, nor was the county put to any expense for his services, and therefore we cheerfully make space for the explanation.

Visiting Engineers.

The delegation of engineers mentioned in yesterday's GAZETTE as being on a visit to this city, comprises the following gentlemen, who are on their way East from the Engineers' Convention at Chicago: F. F. Rowland, Brooklyn, N. Y.; James H. Arrington, Providence, R. I.; Sherden Allen, New York; James Archibald, Scranton, Pa.; George Thomas and E. Ellis, Hartford, Conn.; G. Leverich, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Clark Fisher, Trenton, N.J.; J. R. Dorsett, New York; Edward P. North, New York; James A. Moore, New York; Martin Coryette, Wilkesbarre, Pa.; Wm. Arthur, Brooklyn, New York; Wm. J. McAlpine, Pittsfield, Mass.; O. T. Whitford, Binghampton, N. Y.; W. S. Barbour, Boston, Mass.; Joseph Whitney, Cambridge, Mass.

The gentlemen of the delegation are receiving the attentions of a committee of our citizens, consisting of Messrs. Springer Harbaugh, F. N. Miller, C. J. Schulz, B. F. Jones, President of the American Iron Works; Charles Davis, City Engineer of Allegheny; F. Slataper, Chief Engineer of the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroad, and W. F. Shinn, General Manager of the Pennsylvania Company.

Yesterday morning, under the guidance of this committee, the visitors were taken to the American Iron Works and other points of interest in the neighborhood. In the afternoon they visited the superior Rolling Mill and the Pittsburgh Locomotive Works. The visitors expressed much satisfaction and no little surprise at what they saw during the day.

Temperance Meeting.

A temperance meeting, as previously announced, was held last evening under the auspices of the Second ward, Allegheny, Auxiliary Society of the Allegheny County Christian Temperance Alliance, in the lecture room of the North Avenue M. E. Church. At the time the meeting commenced there were very few present, but the opening exercises were delayed a few minutes, and, at 8 o'clock there was a very good audience.

The Second ward undoubtedly has some young men that are interested in the cause, and are not ashamed to come out in its defense. The meeting was called to order by the President of this Society, the Rev. Jas. King. Prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Holmes.

The President then stated the object of these public meetings, with a few explanatory remarks, after which Mr. W. S. Reid, of Pittsburgh, was introduced to the audience. Mr. Reid dwelt at considerable length upon the duties of Christain and temperate people: the necessity of being total abstainers from all that is intoxicating, and setting forth that example which they have the power to use with good effect. Mr. Reid occupied 30 minutes, with great effect upon the audience.

The pledge was then passed through the audience, and received twenty-eight signatures, one of the signers having signed a similar pledge twenty years ago, and has never violated it in one instance, and rejoiced at having the opportunity of renewing it.

Capt. Kitwood, of Wisconsin, made some very affecting remarks concerning his experience with intemperance on Washington Island, Lake Michigan, and the consequences resulting from his work in that part.

Obituary.

It is with feelings of more than ordinary sadness that we chronicle the death of a young acquaintance, William Henry, Jr., which occurred at the residence of his parents in Fallston, Beaver county, Sunday morning last. The deceased was a young gentleman of sterling worth, energetic in business, possessed of a fine mind, well cultured, and a general favorite alike for his intellectual as well as social merits. For some time he had been engaged in the GAZETTE composing room, where his excellence of character and genial, kindly disposition had won him the good will of all his associates, while he was held in esteem as much by his employers, as by his companions for his marked mental attainments. A few weeks ago he was taken sick, which compelled him to desist from labor. In the hope of recuperating he returned to his home in Fallston, where for a time he seemed to rally, and his friends looked for his speedy recovery; but in this they were doomed to be sadly disappointed, for the relief proved to be but temporary, and after a short season of suffering, he was claimed by death as a victim. The cause of his decease was a complication of disorders—dysentery, fever and ulcerated sore throat, which seemed in the few first days of his illness to have so shattered his constitution as to render medical skill of no avail.

The funeral took place on Monday afternoon, and his remains were laid in the quiet churchyard amid the general sorrow of all who had known—and knowing had learned to love—him in life, and in death held his memory dear. Words of sympathy have little consolation in such an hour of grief, but in common with all their friends, we cannot but afford the parents our most tender and genuine sympathy in the great desolation which has passed over their home.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT.

One Man Killed, and Another Seriously Injured.

Shortly before six o'clock yesterday evening, another fatal railroad accident occurred near the outer depot. At the hour named Archy Miller and James McKinsey, respectively conductor and brakeman, were engaged in making up a freight train on the track of the Pennsylvania railroad, nearly opposite the mouth of Twenty-eighth street. Both men were engaged in coupling two cars, Miller being between them and McKinsey standing on the track with his right arm between the cars assisting Miller. Just at the moment when the men were thus employed two other cars were "shoved up," and as they came with unusual force jammed the cars together. Miller was caught between them, the bumpers crushing in upon his abdomen. As soon as the cars were moved he fell to the ground, his body being pressed completely flat and falling on the track the cars passed over both his legs breaking them below the knee. When taken out from under the wheels the unfortunate fellow was found to be quite dead.

McKinsey's right arm was completely crushed from the elbow down. Dr. Hamilton was called who amputated the injured portion of the member and he was removed to his boarding house on Penn avenue. The remains of Miller were removed to an undertaker's establishment and an inquest will be held on them to-day. He was a young man about twenty-eight years of age, unmarried and resided at Florence. His friends have been notified of his sad death.

THE STACKS MURDER.

SECOND DAY.

Important Testimony.

KOCHER ON THE STAND.

A Conversation Overheard.

BENDER'S ALLEGED ADMISSIONS.

The Court of Oyer and Terminer opened at nine o'clock yesterday morning, when the case of the Commonwealth vs. Henry Bender, indicted for the murder of policeman Henry Stacks was resumed. Public interest in the case does not seem to have flagged in the least, the Court room being crowded in every part.

TESTIMONY ADDUCED.

Nathan Gibbon, recalled—When I left Mr. Stacks on the evening of the occurrence, he had on a dark blue coat, small dark cap, dark pants and dark vest; there was a carriage in front of Bender's when I left Stacks; saw a man open the door of the carriage; it was a white man; the horses in the carriage were towards the river; didn't stop to see whether the man shut the door again.

Cross-examination—Didn't see any buggy; didn't see Sam Golden; he was not the person who opened the carriage door.

Re-direct—(Photograph of Stacks produced.) That is a correct photograph of Stacks.

Dr. McCann was recalled and explained to the jury, using a skull for illustration, the character of the wound found on Stacks' head.

Dr. Benham, who attended the deceased, was called, his testimony agreeing in the main with that of Dr. McCann, published yesterday.

FIXING TIME.

George Wilson, sworn—Was in charge of the Fire Alarm office on the night of the 22d and morning of the 23d of April; there was an alarm of fire from the old Allegheny engine house, box No. 52; it was struck nine minutes after twelve; went to the fire; it was on Liberty street, near Sixth avenue; saw Stacks there; knew him by hearing him called Stacks; saw Gibbons and Stacks leaving; they went up towards mouth of Sixth avenue; this was fifteen or twenty minutes after the alarm.

A. F. Northam, sworn—[Register of Fire Alarm Telegraph produced.]—This is the registry of the Fire Alarm office; I made the entry on the registry from memorandum made by George Wilson. [Record read.] Was at the fire myself and think it was between nine and ten minutes past twelve when the alarm was struck.

No cross-examination.

R. Bechtold, sworn—Saw Mr. Stacks on the night he was found; he was in my house at 58 Diamond; it was between the hours of ten and eleven; he stayed about half an hour; when he first came in he said he thought he had been suspended for about five days; he left about eleven o'clock.

Cross-examination—There were three or four persons drinking with him; thought he had a "little too much," but he knew what he was doing; I gave him two "ponies" of beer; I mean small glasses; I think a man is intoxicated when he don't know what he is doing.

Captain McGinty, recalled—After Mr. Stacks was brought into the watch house he vomited; made an examination and could detect no liquor in it.

Cross-examination—He had not been drinking whisky, brandy or any spirituous liquors; don't call ale or beer liquors.

Dr. Benham, recalled—Vomiting is one of the ordinary symptoms of concussion of the brain; the injury such as Stacks received would naturally produce vomiting.

Lieut. Charles Palmer, sworn—Saw Stacks on Monday night about five minutes past twelve o'clock, after roll call; met him at Diamond alley and Smithfield street; we walked down to corner of Fifth avenue; most of the boys left; Stacks, Gibbon and myself remained; we went down as far as Rhinehart's, and Stacks invited me to take a drink; I took a cigar; when we came out we went as far as Sixth avenue and Smithfield street; we heard a rumpus on Liberty street, and we ran down there at a pretty fast gait; remained at the fire until about half-past twelve; left Stacks at the fire; he was in the house at work pulling down bundles of paper which were burning; I went home; live about four squares distant; just as I was getting into bed heard the clock strike 1; remember it because my wife remarked that I was "out a little late;" was present when Stacks was weighed in March last; he weighed one hundred and ninety pounds.

Cross-examination—Boarded at O'Brien's on Duquesne Way, second door from Hand street; suppose it must have been a quarter past twelve when we reached the fire.

Lieut. M. V. B. Hazen, sworn—Saw Stacks on the night he was injured; saw him about five minutes past twelve at Diamond alley and Smithfield street; we went together to Fifth avenue; Warren and Stacks were skylarking on the sidewalk; Warren remarked I can't get you down; I left them and went to First National Bank at Fifth avenue and Wood street; commenced to eat my lunch; the engines passed about fifteen minutes after twelve; followed them to 210 Liberty street; saw Stacks, Gibbons, Palmer and other officers there; Stacks was throwing paper out of the way, left Stacks at the fire and returned to the Bank; after I finished my lunch Stacks and Gibbons came; it was thirty-five minutes past twelve by Reineman's clock; went directly to Commercial drug store, at Fifth avenue and Smithfield street; staid there three or four minutes and thence to Central Station; it wanted twenty minutes of one o'clock when I opened the door; they were just taking Stacks in.

P. H. Warren, sworn—Saw Stacks on the night he was injured; walked from Diamond alley to Fifth avenue with him; I tried to trip him on the way up but couldn't do it; this was five or six minutes after twelve.

IN HIS SHIRT SLEEVES.

C. C. Murdoch, sworn—On the night Stacks was injured, I was going home from Fifth avenue to Third avenue, on the right side towards the river; when I got to Bender's saloon, I saw a crowd going in; only recognized two—they were Golden and Bender; there were others beside these two; they all went into the saloon; Bender was in his shirt sleeves when I saw him; I passed on, and four or five steps from the door, towards thd river, I saw a man lying on the sidewalk; I supposed he was drunk, and passed on; a couple of young fellows came up from towards the river and stopped and looked at the man and then went towards Fifth avenue; went down and crossed over to Mattern's corner and called the attention of a policeman to the man lying on the pavement; it was a bright moonlight night; there was a carriage and buggy standing in front of Bender's; Golden had a whip in his hand.

Cross-examined—Had been in Allegheny; think it was about twenty-five or thirty minutes after twelve when I passed Bender's; I merely guess the time; can't say how many persons went into Bender's; three or four probably; made no examination of the man when I discovered him; didn't know who the two young men were who passed up the street; one of them stooped down and made some remarks about blood; the parties I noticed going into the saloon were coming from the direction of the place were Stacks was lying.

George Philip Reimiller sworn—Was tending bar for Bender in April last; on the night that Stacks was injured left the saloon at eleven o'clock; left Bender attending bar; he was in his shirt sleeves; can't say whether there were any persons in the saloon or not when I left; was not in the saloon again until next morning.

IN THE SALOON.

Homer Redpath sworn—On the night Stacks was injured in Bender's saloon; went there a little after twelve o'clock; I ordered fried oysters; the oysters were cooked upstairs; while I was in a gentleman came in and asked for beer; he laid down some scrip; he said, "Never mind the change;" he took a seat at the stove; Kocher and another man came in, and ordered something; there were two other men in; they were eating; the man who ordered the beer was dressed in dark clothes, and looked as though he worked at the painting business; I paid my bill and went out; left Kocher and the man who came with him, the two who were eating, the man in dark clothes and Bender; I went to the watch house; while talking to Captain McGinty, Stacks was carried in; did not see Stacks in Bender's saloon while I was there; when I left there was a buggy in front of the saloon; Gibbon was eating his lunch at the watch house when I got there; had lighted a cigar at Bender's and was still smoking it when Stacks was carried in; as near as I can tell it was only a few minutes after I reached the lock-up when Stacks was brought in.

Cross-examination—Don't know what Kocher and his friend ordered; the horse of the buggy was headed towards Fourth avenue; Golden was not there at the time; didn't know Stacks; from the description think I would have known Stacks if he had been in the saloon; didn't know any of the persons who were in the saloon; know Dr. Young; don't think he was in the saloon when I was there; Kocher and his friend took the first table inside the door.

KOCHER'S COMPANION.

Albert Fogle, sworn—Live in Birmingham; am seventeen years of age; was at the circus with Mr. Kocher on the night Stacks was injured; we went in a buggy; the circus was out by Lawrenceville; we started for home; we stopped two or three places on Penn street; the last place we stopped was at Bender's; it was between twelve and one o'clock; we went into Bender's, leaving the buggy outside the door; there was no other vehicle there at the time; Kocher called for a veal cutlet; there were three persons in the saloon at the time besides Mr. Bender; two were sitting at a table eating, and one man was sitting at the stove; we didn't get the cutlet right away; we waited for it; while we were waiting a man came in and called for oysters; Bender gave him the oysters and went to the back part of the room getting something else ready, I guess; when the man got through eating his oysters he got up and went out without paying for them; Bender was in the back part of the room; he turned around just as the man was going out of the door, and ran out after the man and was out a short time; he came back and pushed the doors open, but did not come inside; he motioned to Kocher to come out; he did not mention the name, but said "come out;" Kocher got up and went out; Golden went out, too; no other person went out; I sat still; we were sitting at the first table at right hand side of door when Bender went out I noticed something in his hand, but can't say what it was; they were not out more than two minutes; can't say for sure how long; we had our cutlet before they went out; Golden came in after we did; don't know which came in first; they all came in together; Kocher sat down and finished his meal; Bender went behind the bar and Golden stood in front of the counter; Kocher asked Golden to "take a drink on him;" Golden, Kocher and Bender were talking together over the bar; couldn't understand what they were saying; Kocher then told me to go home; before we left a policeman came in and asked Bender if he knew anything about that man; Bender said he didn't know; the talking over the bar was done after the officer was there; never knew Stacks; we went home in the buggy, by way of the upper bridge; Bender had something dark-looking in his hand. The man who went out without paying for his oysters acted like he was drunk.

Cross examined—The man had dark clothes on and wore a cap; he was a tall man but not very stout; he staggered when he came in and when he went out; the policeman spoke to Bender twice and then he went out; am sure none of the others went out with him; am sure Kocher went home with me; we got home about two o'clock; we drove to the stable; I left him there and went home; Kocher was not out of my sight from the time we left Bender's until we reached the stable; didn't hear Kocher say anything when he went out with Bender; told Dressler about this matter, talked with him at the stable after the arrest; was not at Steiner's saloon at the corner of Market street and Third avenue; do not know Stephen Hurd, a bar keeper; Kocher left me in charge of the buggy at the White House on Fifth avenue, but don't think he was gone long enough to go down to the corner of Third avenue and Market street.

Afternoon Session.

Court re-opened at half past one o'clock.

Mrs. Mary Murray, sworn—Live opposite Bender's saloon, on Smithfield street; I heard a mace rap three times, and got up and looked out of the window; saw a man lying on the sidewalk and supposed he was drunk; saw the policemen go in after Bender; saw Bender come out, stand a minute or so looking at the man, and then go back into the house; he had no coat on; saw no person but Mr. Bender come out; there was a horse and carriage in front of the door; this was all I saw.

Thomas Murray, sworn—Am husband of the previous witness; heard the mace rap, and got up and looked out of the window; saw the officer go into Bender's and saw Bender come out with the officer; saw no one but Bender come out.

Cross-examined—Saw Golden at Bender's about twelve o'clock before I went to bed; to the best of my knowledge the same vehicles were there when I got up.

CONVERSATION OVERHEARD.

M. V. B. Hazen, recalled—Was at the lock-up when Bender was there; I was in the rear part taking a prisoner out; this was about eight o'clock in the evening of the day Stacks was buried; there were three gentlemen talking to Bender; a man with long, red whiskers and stove pipe hat said to Bender, "You're in a bad fix;" Bender replied, "I did'nt think I hit him so hard;" one of the others told Bender he had better not talk so much; he had better keep his mouth shut; the man with red whiskers asked Bender what he struck him with; Bender said "with a knife;" the other man again told him not to talk so much; the man with red whiskers asked Bender if that man, referring to one who made the remark was there; Bender said "no, I called him out of the saloon;" Mrs. Davis then interrupted him and asked him what he was put in for; the man with the red whiskers said "nothing;" Mrs. Davis said that's the way they all say; the man who had been warning Bender, told him several times to say nothing; Bender's friends then went out.

Cross-examined—Have lived in Pittsburgh for the last ten years; have been on the force about fifteen months; was not at the Coroner's inquest; was at funeral of deceased; I think it was last week I told Mr. Coyle of this; do not know who were the men that conversed with Bender at the lock-up; have never seen any of them before or since; I was at the rear of the lock-up; Bender was in the back cell; I was out with a prisoner; I have never seen the men since nor did I see them before; he was a tall man with red moustache; I was eight years in the army; I have been in this city four years; I first went on the police fore under Mayor Lowry; was on Mayor Brush's force when first organized; I told about the conversation to Captain McGinty shortly after I heard it; it was less than two weeks after; Mrs. Davis was in the lock-up at the time of the conversation; there were several persons to see Bender that night; I don't recollect the names of any of these; I don't recollect the names of the men who had the conversation.

Mrs. Mary Davis—I remember the day Stacks was buried; I saw Bender in the lock-up; there were three men there, and talked to Bender; I heard a man tell Bender to keep his mouth shut and not talk so much; I asked the men what he had done, and they said nothing.

ON THE TRAIL.

Joseph S. Cupples—The day following Stacks' murder I called at Bender's saloon, accompanied by Detective Long; it was 6 o'clock in the evening; I told Bender I understood there had been a fuss in his saloon; he denied that there had been any fuss at all, and seemed not to wish to talk; I asked him when he shut up, he said about 1 or 2 o'clock; he told me there were several persons in the house when he shut up; he said he did not know whether any carriage driver was in the house; he said there was no man in the house with a whip in his hand; he did not appear to want to talk with us; he got away from us every minute or two; we then left and returned at 7 o'clock; insisted for him to say whether there had been a fuss in the house telling him we had good authority for believing there had been; he denied it; he again denied a carriage driver being present; he said there were seven or eight persons in the house none of whom he knew; I then left again; between nine and ten o'clock I returned for the purpose of finding out if a carriage driver was present; his wife was there then; he again denied any knowledge; I returned between eleven and twelve o'clock; I then found out the driver's name from the barkeeper; it was Samuel Golden; I told Bender that a carriage had been seen in front of his door; he denied that any carriage had been there; he said he was outside the house and was certain there was no carriage there.

Cross-examined—I first went to see Bender on the evening of the 23d of April; the bar-keeper said that Bender had told him that he had been very busy the night before and "nigger Sam" had helped him.

Peter Dressler, re-called—I called to see Mr. Bender before his arrest; I asked him to tell who was in his house on the night of the murder and he said he did'nt know; he was busy inside and could not tell what was going on outside; he denied any knowledge of Stacks being killed or that he was round there; he said the first he knew about it was an officer asking him if he knew about a man being hurt; went out to put out the light; he said Sam Golden had a carriage outside and told me to go to him as he knew as much as he did; he did'nt know whether there was a buggy there; I think Bender said he did'nt know Stacks.

Cross-examined—This conversation took place on Wednesday evening; I told him a reward was offered and that I would give him all if he would give me any information; next day saw Mr. Bender; Bender was then arrested.

James S. Patterson—I am Mayor's clerk; I called on Mr. Bender before Stack's death; I told Bender I wanted to see him; we walked back to the foot of the stairs; I sat down on the foot of the stairs; I told him I came to find out about the man being hurt, and asked if there had been any fuss; he said a good many people were in the saloon, and there was no fuss; asked him if any difficulty occurred in front of the house, and he said no, and that he did not know officer Stacks; I described Stacks, and he said no such man had been in his house that night.

Cross-examined—I visited Bender the following morning; I saw him again on Thursday morning in the presence of his wife; he then made a statement as to the occurrence.

Mr. Swoope—Stop; that's not cross-examination.

Mr. Marshall—Well, I am not particular about it.

George P. Reimiller recalled—I went to work at half-past six o'clock on Tuesday morning; I saw Stacks carried past by the policemen while I was washing off the pavement; a corner policeman came to me and asked me if that man had been in the house; I asked what time; he said between twelve and one o'clock; I said no I left the saloon at eleven o'clock; Bender got up at about half-past seven o'clock; I asked him if he knew of a man having been hurt outside the door; he said no; I afterwards told him if he knew anything about the matter, he had better tell it; he said he knew nothing about it.

Officer James Carville recalled—I was in citizen's dress when I found Stacks on the sidewalk; I had an ordinary police shield on.

WHO WERE IN THE SALOON.

J. H. Campbell—I was in Bender's saloon shortly after twelve o'clock on the night of the killing, and remained there about half an hour; when I went in there were but two persons in the room, one, a large man, reading, and another sitting at a table. I sat down and gave an order; Bender came to take my order; then Homer Redpath came in, and Bender left me and went and took Redpath's order; a large man then entered and came and sat near me; then three raftsmen came in; these were followed by two men; then a tall man came in with a blank book in his hand, and complained of being cold; he went to the stove and sat down a little while, and then went out; my attention was called to the large man by his manner of eating as he bent over his plate; Bender was sitting on the counter; he jumped off his seat and ran out; a colored man followed him; some one asked what was the matter, and it was said that some one had gone out without paying for his meal; I soon after left the saloon and went to the Central Hotel and went to bed; it was a very light night; I asked Bender if he had found his man when he returned and he said, I think, "I don't know;" I went out soon after Redpath.

Cross-examined—Bender was only out a short time when he went out; I saw no weapon in his hand; I went out soon after Bender came in; I saw or heard nothing on the street; I saw a carriage at the door; don't recollect a buggy; I think some persons were sitting near the door on the right hand side as you enter.

Albert Vogel recalled (photograph shown)—This picture does not look like the man Bender followed out of the saloon.

Cross-examined—I saw this picture two or three weeks ago; this picture does not look like the man Bender followed; he had no chin whiskers; had no collar or necktie on.

Chief of Police Irwin—I sent Detective Cupples to Mr. Bender to investigate into this matter; I saw Mr. Bender on the morning of the 25th; I went to his saloon and found him waiting on the table and asked if he had seen Mr. Cupples; he said he had not; I removed Stacks' clothes after death; he had on a blue sack coat.

KOCHER ON THE STAND.

Mr. Coyle then moved the Court that a nolle pros. be entered in the case of Kocher, presenting the necessary affidavit. A consultation ensued between Messrs. Swoope and Marshall, in which the latter said that if Golden was also nolle prossed he would offer no objections.

Mr. Swoope refused to accede to this request. Mr. Marshall then announced to the Court that he should file a paper in answer, and also stated that he should expect to be heard at length.

The Court having received both papers allowed the motion, the exception of the defense being filed.

William Kocher was then called to the stand.

Mr. Marshall objected to his being sworn on the grounds set forth in the paper filed, and also objected to his competence as a witness.

The court ordered the witness to be sworn.

Wm. Kocher—I came from the circus on the night of the 22d of April; went into Bender's saloon at a quarter past 12 by my time; Albert Vogle was with me; I was driving in a one horse top buggy; I left my horse hitched to the post outside the saloon; went into saloon and called for two veal cutlets; sat down at the first table as you enter the door on the right hand side; after about fifteen minutes some intoxicated man came in and called for oysters; don't know whether he eat them or not; he went out without paying for them; saw Bender come from behind the further bar and run out after him, having something in his hand; Bender was out a short time; when he came back he shoved the door open and beckoned for me to come out; got up from the table and went out; saw Bender and some man engaged in a tussle; do not know whether it was the man who had gone out without paying for the oysters; saw Bender strike the man and the man fall on his back; the man never moved; saw something in his right hand but don't know what it was; he had hold of the man with his left hand when he struck him; after the man fell Bender came to me and asked me to see if I could get him up; I went to the man and shoved him with my foot, and told him to get up; he did not move; Bender tapped me on the shoulder and told me to come away, as the police would get him; I saw no one but Golden, Bender, and the man that was laying on the sidewalk; Bender told me and Golden not to say anything about it; as we were standing in the saloon; in a short time a policeman came in and asked Bender if the man who was lying outside had been in his house; Bender said "no;" the policeman went out and came back soon, and called Bender out; Bender went out with Golden and some other men I do not know; they remained out but a short time; when they came in, a man asked Bender where the man was who had come in; Bender said he had run away; after eating my cutlets, I asked Vogle and Golden to take a drink; we then went out and got in the buggy; Golden and Bender followed us out, and Bender asked us not to say anything about that; I then went right home; the only carriage I saw in the street was opposite the Central; my buggy was the only thing in front of Bender's when we started away; nothing else occurred in the saloon; I saw Bender on Tuesday night; I was in the White House; about fifteen minutes to eleven stopped at the Central and went to catch a car; when opposite Bender's a car overtook us and we stopped in front of the saloon; Bender came out and told me Mayor Blackmore had been at his house twice now, and asked me not to say anything if they should come for me; got in the car and went home; William Eckman was with me, he is one of our drivers.

Cross-examined—I left the circus about half-past nine o'clock; my buggy was in a stable near the circus; I went into a saloon there and remained 15 or 20 minutes; young Vogel was holding the horse in front of the saloon; the next saloon I went into was near the skating park; I staid there time enough to take a drink; then drove down to the White House on Fifth avenue; coming by Canal street and crossing over by the Elevator; I staid in the White House about an hour; the boy was watching the horse; he came once in a while and "took a drink;" from the White House I drove a bit out on the Fourth street road; stopped at Wieman's saloon; I staid there long enough to take a drink; then drove down Third avenue to Myers' saloon, near Market street, opposite the Vigilant Engine House; I hitched the horse to a post there; then drove to Market street and had two drinks at Mrs. Stein's; the boy and I went in there together; I saw Mrs. Stiner there; I don't know how long I staid there; it was a little after twelve when I left; drove up Third street to the Central; took a drink and then went to Bender's; it was about a quarter after twelve when I got to Bender's saloon; it was about one o'clock when I left Bender's; Golden was there then; his carriage was at the Central; at the time I saw the man on the pavement the carriage was in front of the Central Hotel; Bender came up to me when I got into the buggy and said not to say anything about it; I don't know whether Vogel heard him speak; Golden was standing alongside of Bender with his whip in his hand; I can't say how many drinks I took before I left the circus; I took several drinks; don't know how many; after I left Bender's I drove over to my father's stable; I drove up Third to Ross down Ross to Second, and followed Second to the bridge; I don't know exactly what time I arrived at home; I think it was about half past 2 o'clock; Vogle went into the stable with me and took the harness off the horse; I then went to bed; I got up about 6 o'clock in the morning; did not come back to town that morning between 2 and 3 o'clock; I went home on the last car on Tuesday night; I was not in town on Wednesday; I was not in town on Tuesday morning before daylight after leaving Bender's saloon; I was not in town in the early morning, either Wednesday or Thursday mornings, before daylight.

At this stage, Court adjourned at 5:15 P. M. till 9 o'clock this morning.

Pittsburgh Female College.

This morning at nine o'clock the examination of the classes of the Pittsburgh Female College will be commenced. To-day and Thursday will be occupied in the examination of the Senior class, which will be conducted under the supervision of the Committee appointed for that purpose by the Conference, and by teachers, many of whom are not connected with the institution. In the afternoon the class will be examined in Butler's Analogy, under the supervision of the Revs. M. S. Vernon, J. H. W. Stuckenburg and E. Y Garrette.

On Friday evening the music contest, for the McKee and Mellor prizes, will take place in the College Chapel. The McKee prize is a superb gold medal, cast in the United States Mint in Philadelphia. The Mellor prize is a beautiful volume of choice music.

On Tuesday evening of next week the reading contest for the Mrs. Margaret Davidson prize will take place.

It is scarcely necessary for us to remind the public that during the ensuing days an opportunity will be afforded for much enjoyment in attending these examinations, contests and entertainments. All who have daughters should visit the college and see how thorough is the system of education there pursued.

"What is Cheap?"

Now that all the other "excursions" are over and everybody has seen everybody elses' lots and how they have been selling, "everybody" will be able to make an intelligent comparison of other lots with those to be sold at North Homestead on Monday next. Folks who have been to the greatest number of excursions will be the best judges whether or not they are cheap, and no doubt will do some of the liveliest bidding and get most of the bargains. But how shall those who have not been to other sales know if North Homestead is selling cheap? This is a nice question and brings us to a nicer one. What is cheap? Some will tell you that the price is the standard of cheapness, some the quality, and others again that quality and price must both be right to make a thing cheap. But a thing may be very low priced, or very good, or both, and still not cheap. Not cheap to any but those who need it and who can easily buy it without depriving themselves of the means to buy any other necessity.

This is a true test of "cheapness" for every one, and notwithstanding the North Homestead lots are admitably the best property ever offered in Allegheny county on such easy terms, they will not be cheap at any price to those who cannot buy them without deprivation of other necessities, but to all who are able to make the payments they will as certainly be cheap enough at any price the public judgment puts on them. There can be no question that they will double in value before they are half paid for.

Drop into Pratt's to-day and get a new summer hat. He has all the freshest eastern styles, and a varied assortment to select from. You cannot fail to get suited. Especially is the stock complete in the line of straw goods just purchased for the season. No old grades to work off. Go to Pratt's, 107 Federal street Allegheny.

MURDER IN ALLEGHENY!

STABBED IN BED!

A Brother's Revenge—His Sister's Paramour—The Guilty Pair Caught in the Bedchamber—Summary Vengeance on the Man—The Dead Man at the Lockup—The Assailant in Custody—His Story of the Affair.

This morning Allegheny was the scene of a terrible murder which created an intense sensation in police circles,—a sensation that will doubtless be reciprocated among the people to-day when the complete details of the tragedy are known. The particulars of the affair, so far as we could ascertain them after midnight, were as follows:

A gentleman who resides at the head of Arch street, Allegheny, about fifteen minutes past twelve o'clock was passing up the street to his home, when at the corner of Arch street and North avenue he observed a man a few rods in advance of him,

HOLDING ON THE RAILING

which encircles the North avenue M. E. Church. He supposed the man to be intoxicated and was about to cross the street when he observed the man fall heavily to the ground and moan as if in great pain. Now thoroughly aroused the gentleman picked up a boulder and rapped on a lamp post to call the police, at the same time calling out for them. The summons was heard by officers Wilson and Cowell, who were on Montgomery avenue passing on their way home. They ran swiftly across the Park, and upon arriving at the spot found the man surrounded by three others and a couple of ladies. It seems two of the gentlemen—young men—accompanying the ladies, were coming along the avenue when they heard the alarm and stopped a moment to ascertain its cause. The other gentleman was the gentleman who rapped. The object of their curiosity, a heavy set man lying on the pavement, hatless, coatless and in his bare feet, while from his side and his shoulders were trickling. His vest was thrown open, and at his feet lay a silver watch which had evidently dropped from his pocket. He was breathing, but with great difficulty, and apparently was suffering under great pain. While the group were intent upon making their observations, two men came down the street, one of whom had a knife in his hand, and was in his shirt sleeves. Stepping to the gentleman who gave the alarm he said "I did this, I cut that man, and I'm come down to give myself up." In response the gentleman said: "What did you do it for," and received the reply "that's none of your d—n business. I want to give myself up."

"I CUT HIM."

Just then Officer Wilson heard the remark, and turning round recognized the man as Ambrose F. Lynch, who is well known in the community. The officer questioned him as to the trouble, but gained no information further than the reply, "It was in a house where his shoes are; they'll tell all the story. I'm ready to go down with you."

The man was accordingly taken into custody, while a stretcher was procured and his victim placed upon it and borne to the lock-up. In the meantime a physician had been sent for, and by the time the party arrived at the lock-up, Drs. B. B. Smith, City Physician, and J. V. Kirker had arrived. The man was still breathing, but an examination showed his

CASE TO BE HOPELESS.

He had a wound on either shoulder, and one in the left breast directly over the heart—the knife having evidently touched a vital part there. He ceased breathing in a few minutes after being laid on the floor.

His clothing was examined but no clue to his identity could be obtained. He had a pass book containing a summons from the Prothonotary on John S. Hall, together with two or three bills on other parties, but no money or other memoranda. He was a short heavy set man with sandy bushy hair and tigry whiskers and mustache. He looked to be about forty years of age.

The prisoner was then searched and with which he had committed the deed taken from it. It was of the ordinary size of a penknife, and the blows must have been powerful to have produced the result. Lynch, who goes by the soubriquet of "Bruiser Lynch," is a man about thirty-five years, and a model of muscular development. At first he was very non-communicative, but at last relaxed his silence and told the following story:

LYNCH'S STORY.

"I cut that man," said he to our reporter, "and if I'd had a shot gun or a sword I'd have served him in the same way. I'll tell you how it was, you know my sister, Mrs. Teets, lives in our house; she occupies a room across the hall from me. Several times I have suspected something wrong there but could never make good my suspicions. Last night I was in my room, when I thought I heard a creaking noise in the hall, but when I looked out I could see nothing. We live at 174 Arch street. I thought I'd keep watch though and listen. Pretty soon I heard a noise in my sister's room, as of some man walking across the room, and then I heard the squeaking noise. I listened at the door and heard a man's voice, and then I got mad. I pulled out my knife and gave a push against the door with my shoulder. The first time I didn't fetch it but the second time it "bursted," and I sprung into the room. There was a lamp in the room and it was turned half way down so that I could'nt see very well. My sister jumped out of bed and said "what do you want here." Says I, "I want to see who you have here." I then stepped toward the bed and just then a man raised up and said, "Mr. Lynch"—but I didn't wait to listen. I saw he wasn't her husband, and I raised the knife and let it drive. I must have cut him on the shoulder that time as he threw up his arm. I struck him again and then he jumped out of bed and we had a tussle. I struck again and then my sister pitched into me. I knocked her down twice, and tried to get the lamp out of her hand to turn it up, but she held on and I let go, for fear it would "bust." In this way the fellow escaped me, grabbing up his pants and vest and running out downstairs and out the hall door-way. I then put my pants on and came down to give myself up; and I did it too, without any fuss, didn't I Wilson," said the prisoner, turning to the officer.

Officer Wilson corroborated his statement as to his giving himself up.

THE VICTIM UNKNOWN.

Lynch further said he did not know his victim and had never seen him before.

Mr. George Fry, who was awakened by the alarm, also states that he saw Lynch coming down street, and in reply to an inquiry, Bruiser told him he had cut a man and was going down to give himself up.

Lynch, when once started, talked freely, and expressed no compunctions for the act which had sent a fellow-being into eternity—although it was evident he felt his situation keenly. He stood behind the bars in full view of his victim, and, occasionally, while telling his story, glanced over to where the dead man lay.

THE WOMAN IN THE AFFAIR,

is, as has been said Lynch's sister. She is between thirty-five and forty years of age, and is the mother of a family of children. Her husband, it is said, has been separated from her for some time past,—occasional reconciliations being made which however had but a transitory duration.

As soon as Lynch had told his story, Captain Wilson took a posse and went up to the house to arrest the woman, but when our reporter left he had not returned. No trouble, however, is anticipated in making the arrest, and possibly some new light may then be thrown upon the affair. The coroner's inquest will be held to-day, when the whole matter will be thoroughly investigated.

POLICE NOTES.

Brief Mention of Criminalities.

Mr. D. Dunseath, Sr., makes an information before Alderman McMasters, charging Samuel Barclay with assault and battery. The deponent alleges that Barclay made an attack upon him, knocking him down and kicking him. A warrant was issued for his arrest.

William Shipman, a colored whitewasher, made an information yesterday against Thomas Baccus, charging him with false pretense. The deponent alleges that he engaged to do a job of work for the defendant, who is a contractor, with the understanding that when defendant was paid he would pay Shipman. At the arrival of that time, however, Baccus "lit out" without stopping to settle with the plaintiff.

Alderman Strain made an information before Alderman Thomas, charging John Neff with malicious mischief in into driving his barouche on last Sunday, causing him to be thrown out and breaking two of his fingers. A warrant was issued for the arrest of Neff.

Ann Sullivan is charged by Julia Lapperwhite with malicious mischief in throwing a brick through her door. Alderman O'Donnell issued a warrant.

Edward Smith was yesterday sent to the Work House for thirty days by the Mayor, on a charge of disorderly conduct.

H. Sutmeyer Bro. & Co. have a large lot of childrens' goods for summer wear, all ready made in the latest style and of all kinds of material. Parents will save time and money by making purchase there. In the line of gentlemen's, grades also the stocks is very full and complete,—collars, neckties, gloves, the celebrated star shirt, &c., forming a part. The house is on the southwest corner of Federal street and the Diamond, Allegheny.

DETERMINED ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE.

A Woman Jumps from the Hand Street Bridge—Rescued from Drowning.

Shortly after mid-day yesterday a very determined attempt at suicide was made by a young woman named Rose Higgin. About the time named she was observed to pass the toll house of the Hand street bridge and take the walk along the upper side. When a little beyond the second pier from the Pittsburgh side, the woman climbed upon the railing and sprang headforemost into the river. She was observed by persons standing on the river bank and measures immediately taken to rescue her from drowning. Officer John Tetley and a Mr. Riley went out in a skiff and reached the woman near the foot of Irwin street, where she was floating with her face downwards. At this time it was feared that she was dead, but a nearer view proved that she was still living. Officer Tetley succeeded in catching her hair and afterward placing her arms over the side of the boat. Riley at once rowed towards shore, and before reaching it the woman had recovered her speech and begged to be allowed to drown herself. When the shore was reached she was placed in the Fisher Boat House where a physician attended her. She stated that she was employed as domestic in the family of a well known Penn street dentist. She had left her dinner half cooked, she said, and came privately away from the house that she might kill herself. She was taken to the Homeopathic Hospital where she is now lying in a delirious condition. She says that if she can get away she will surely repeat the experiment. Her health was very poor, she said, and she was also much troubled about a brother who was doing badly, and the combined troubles led her to attempt suicide. She had lived in the physician's family about three weeks, is of Irish birth, and lives, when at home in Huntingdon.

MILLVALE BOROUGH COUNCILS

Regular Monthly Meeting.

The meeting was called to order by the Burgess, Mr. Mundon.

The minutes of the former meeting were read and approved.

Burgess Mundon presented the resignation of John Breiner, which was not accepted.

A bill was presented for the payment of the officers of the election board held in the borough primary.

On motion, adjourned.

Amusements.

PITTSBURGH OPERA HOUSE.—Billy Manning's minstrels were greeted by another large house last night and the performances went very smoothly. The company is one of the strongest ever seen in this city and is complete in all its parts. The singing of the quartette is unusually fine and the selection of music agreeable and artistic. Mr. Percy, the tenor of the party has a beautiful voice, true and of great compass. The gentleman will to-night sing a favorite ballad in which he is said to have no equal. All lovers of pleasant amusement should see Manning's minstrels.

CARNCROSS & DIXEY.—The Academy was completely crowded last night in every part on the occasion of the second performance by the favorite minstrel company, under the management of Carncross & Dixey. A more carefully selected and well executed programme could not have been selected. Every part of the performance was first class, and the audience gave unmistakable evidence of unbounded satisfaction. A change of programme will be made to-night.

Our Three Presidents.—Washington, Lincoln and Grant—a trio whose names and fames will never die out of American history, form the subject for a large sized group of portraits, artistically arranged, and fresh from the press of the steam lithographic establishment of Duff & Wettach, Grant street. It is a magnificent specimen of art, and would fittingly grace any parlor in the land. We hope the enterprise which prompted the issue of such a beautiful lithograph will be encouraged by a large sale of copies, a specimen of which adorns the GAZETTE counting room, where it may be seen to be admired and bear testimony to the art of the publishers.
